

MANY TURNERS OLD FRIEND ARE ARRIVING COMES BACK

Active Teams Here to Participate in Kreis Turnfest.

GRAND RAPIDS IS FIRST ON GROUND

Eiche, Chicago, in Strong Force—Program Opens This Evening.

Gut Heil!

That is the slogan with which Fort Wayne is welcoming the turners as they arrive today to participate in the big kreis turnfest which opens this evening and continues until Monday. Every incoming train today has brought some of the crack teams of the turner societies of the middle west to Fort Wayne. A good many of them are already here, and a good many more will arrive before the opening exercises this evening. They came in the midst of a drizzling rain, but a little thing like unfavorable weather utterly failed to dampen either the warmth of Fort Wayne's welcome or the enthusiasm of the German athletes for the big turnfest program before them.

Two big parades are scheduled during the Fort Wayne meet. The first of these is at 8 o'clock tonight. It is a torchlight parade of the visiting turner societies, terminating at the revolving stand at the court house. The second parade, scheduled to move at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon, will bring out all the German societies of the city as well as the turners.

Grand Rapids was the first of the visiting delegations to arrive today. Led by Paul Landauer, instructor, the Grand Rapids team of seventeen athletes and a team of twelve ladies arrived over the Grand Rapids and Indiana railroad at noon, and was escorted to the Turner hall on West Superior street near Fulton.

Brings Choral Society.

The Eiche society, from Kensington, Chicago, reached the city on a special train over the Nickel Plate at 12:30. It included a choral society of thirty-eight singers, a team of twenty-five athletes and a ladies' team of twenty members. Alfred Wild is the physical instructor, and Adolph Doer the musical instructor. The Eiche delegation made a change of cars at Hammond, where it boarded its special train, having come from Kensington on the New York Central lines. At the Turner hall the choral society rendered an informal program to the immense delight of the crowd gathered there.

South Side Turnverein, Indianapolis, the Dayton Turngemeinde and the South Bend athletes all arrived at 3 o'clock, and a still larger delegation will reach the city from Dayton at 3:20 o'clock this evening. Cleveland turned came in on a special train over the Nickel Plate at 4:30, and the Chicago and Milwaukee societies will arrive in a special train over the Pennsylvania lines this evening in time to participate in the parade. Under the rules all the teams which are to compete for the honors on the turnfest.

WHERE CASTRO DIDN'T HIDE, THE SHIP HE DOES NOT OWN AND THE WIFE WHO PROBABLY IS STILL HIS.

GENERAL AND SEÑORA CASTRO

CASTRO NEVER OWNED VESSEL

Some New Light Thrown on an Affair That Stirred Both Hemispheres.

CIP IS NOT IN HAITI

Berlin, June 16.—George Grostuck, Ecuadorian consul at Berlin, who said the dismantled Italian cruiser Umbria to the Haitian government, stated today that the whole story to the effect that Cipriano Castro, the exiled president of Venezuela, was aboard the craft, which is now known as the Consul Grostuck, was a myth.

Grostuck received a cablegram today announcing the arrival of the vessel at Port Au Prince. He said that she was to be delivered to Hayti. He added that Castro while in a hospital here in 1909 had negotiated with him for the purchase of two ships, but these negotiations were broken off when the Venezuelan president was deposed.

The Consul Grostuck arrived at Port Au Prince yesterday flying the German flag and the officers going ashore were received by President Simon. Later it was officially denied that Castro was on the steamer.

Grostuck flatly denied the statement of the German foreign office that the Consul Grostuck was not entitled to fly the German flag. This had been attested, he said, on March 22 by the German consul at Livorno, Italy.

According to Grostuck, the Venezuelan government, not Castro, had shown the greatest interest in the vessel and had requested that the ship be sent to La Guayra, Venezuela, in order that it might be inspected by President Gomez, who contemplated purchasing the ship through Grostuck. Later, however, he ordered the vessel to proceed direct to Port Au Prince.

COEDS END FIFTY-MILE TRAMP.

Frankfort, Ind., June 16.—Miss Marie Smith and Miss Marjorie Garber, of this city, students of the normal in this city last night at 7 o'clock, having walked from Indianapolis, having left Irvington at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, having decided to walk all the way and spend no money. They were clad in sailor suits and wore straw hats. Several times they refused offers to ride in automobiles. They started without provisions. Their meals and their lodgings at Lebanon, where they remained Wednesday night, cost them nothing, as people who learned what they were doing were eager to help them. They were given a warm greeting last night by their friends, who recognized them as they walked along the streets.

WENT BACK AND GOT HIM.

Kentucky Highwayman Killed by Man Who Once Got Past.

Mayeville, Ky., June 16.—Confronted by highwaymen while driving home, near here, late last night, Timothy Ryan, a farmer, and his wife, whipped up their horses and escaped. Ryan and a neighbor armed themselves and returning early today met two men who attempted to hold them up. They fired at them and one of the highwaymen fell, the other escaping. The wounded man died in the county jail here this morning. His body was identified as that of George Watson, a blacksmith of Dayton, Ky.

INDIANA CITIES SELECTED.

Crownpoint and New Albany on List of Savings Bank Designations.

Washington, June 16.—Postmaster General Hitchcock has designated fifty additional postal savings banks, making a total of 700 established to date. Among the offices named are the following: Foray, Ark.; Crownpoint and New Albany, Ind.; Somerset, Ky.; Bucyrus, Kent.; Martins Ferry and Wadsworth, O.; Hobart, Okla.; Columbia, Tenn.; Corpus Christi, Tex.; and Richmond, Va.

VENGEANCE HER MOTIVE

Another Woman Appears in Cooke Case to Pay Old Friendly Score.

HE HELPED HER TO "GET" SON'S SLAYER

Another Sensation Offered in Big Four Embezzlement Trial.

Cincinnati, June 16.—Edgar S. Cooke, accused of embezzling $24,000 from the Big Four railway, took the stand in his own behalf today to refute the accusations hurled at him by Charles L. Warriner, defaulting treasurer of the road, and Mrs. Jeanette Stewart Ford. The beginning of the defense marked the second stage in the sensational trial.

Previous to the appearance of Cooke another woman had come forward in the case and in the light of testimony she appeared as one who had devoted her life to but one thought, revenge.

A Woman's Revenge.

Mrs. Mattie McDermott, of Morrow, Ohio, was this witness. She it was who boasted that, through her efforts, Frank M. Couden, of Warren county, lost his position as cashier in the office of collector of federal customs in Cincinnati. Couden, it is claimed, first informed the Big Four management of the Warriner shortage, having gained the information from a stenographer in the government office who was a close friend of Mrs. Ford.

Couden years ago shot and killed Mrs. McDermott's son. He was killed and acquitted on grounds of self-defense, but since then she has never lost an opportunity to avenge herself on Couden.

Her Motive.

Asked the motive for her testimony today in Cooke's behalf, she said Cooke had told her, "If you help me I'll help you with Couden."

Mrs. McDermott swore that she visited Mrs. Ford at the hospital last Friday and that the woman who on Wednesday declared that Cooke had given her $22,000, "taken from the Big Four," told her visitor that "as far as the honesty of Mr. Cooke was concerned she could not swear that Cooke had ever stolen a dollar."

The defense opened with half a dozen character witnesses from Cooke's old home in a Cincinnati suburb. Then came Mrs. McDermott and then Cooke himself.

GOVERNOR NAMES NEW APPOINTEES

Samuel M. Foster, of Fort Wayne, Appointed to Purdue Board.

IS GOING TO HAVRE

Indianapolis, Ind., June 16.—Gov. Marshall today announced the appointment of eleven persons to various state boards. Among the appointments are: Board of trustees, women's suffrage, this city, Mrs. Paul Forner, Sullivan, and Etta Hank, Ossian, to succeed Mrs. Dan Vaughn, Tipton, and Mrs. W. Bent Wilson, Lafayette. These appointments are for four years from April 10.

Board of trustees Purdue university, Lafayette, Samuel M. Foster, of Fort Wayne, and Wm. B. Stuart, Lafayette, to succeed H. A. Miller, Monticello, and Andrew A. Adams, Columbia City, now judge of the appellate court. Appointments are for six years.

late board of veterinary medical examiners: Charles I. Fleming, of Terre Haute, to succeed G. C. Fertling, of Richmond.

The governor also named the members of the state board of tax commissioners as delegates to the international conference to be held in Richmond, Va., Sept. 4-5.

ATTACKS HIGH HEELED SHOES.

Destructive as Ruin and Deadly as Opium, Says Jurist.

Troy, N. Y., June 16.—Favoring a nation wide movement against the wearing of high heeled shoes, Justice W. O. Howard, of the supreme court of New York state, said to an audience of women:

"High heeled shoes are as barbarous and as destructive of health as the Chinese wooden shoes. They are as heathenish and outlandish as wearing rings in the nose or tattooing the face, and they breed an ungainly and deformed race."

"Can I urge you to go out and advocate normal feet, such as God gave? Have you the courage to speak out against this silly fashion—a fashion as destructive as rum, as deadly as opium?"

THE MUTZFELD FAMILY.

Fourth Annual Reunion Held Near Auburn.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Auburn, Ind., June 16.—The fourth annual reunion of the Mutfeld family was held on Thursday at the home of John Mutfeld, south of this city, with ninety of the relatives present, coming in with well filled baskets. The dinner was served in the woods near by, after which a business meeting was held. The remainder of the day was spent in a social manner. Relatives were present from Fort Wayne, Auburn, Garrett and Butler.

GARY OFFICERS ACQUITTED.

Trial of Mayor Knotts is Slated to Begin Monday.

Valparaiso, Ind., June 15.—The jury in the case of Officers White, Price and Mulcahey, of Gary, charged with rioting on election day, found for the defendants last night, after being out four minutes. Mayor Knotts and fifteen other Gary officials, charged with conspiracy, will be tried Monday.

LOSS OF LIFE EXAGGERATED.

Trieste, Austria, June 16.—The reports emanating from Vienna of fatalities here resulting from the recent hurricane, were greatly exaggerated. So far as known not more than twenty-five lives were lost in this vicinity.

RECIPROCITY WILL WIN OUT

Chairman Penrose Assures President of Sixty Votes for Bill.

SENATE FIGHT TO END IN FEW DAYS

Wool Schedule and Free List Bills Soon to Be Presented.

Washington, June 16.—Chairman Penrose, of the senate finance committee in conference with President Taft today confirmed the report that sixty senators are expected to vote for Canadian reciprocity and predicted that within two weeks a date for a vote would be agreed upon. He declared the bill would be passed without amendment.

"A careful canvass shows that sixty members, or substantially two-thirds of the senate, are in favor of the reciprocity bill and more than that number will be opposed to the Root amendment," said Mr. Penrose.

"The bill will be passed at an early date without amendment. It will be well if it could be passed before the Canadian parliament reassembles the latter part of July."

Expect Wool Bill Soon.

"The prospect looks good that the wool bill will reach the senate in a few days and the finance committee will be called together for the purpose of considering the wool bill and the free list bill. Work investigating the wool schedule and will be ready to report next December so it is not reasonable to expect that the republican majority in the senate will take up the wool bill until the report is received."

"The free list bill opens up a wide range of tariff discussion and the finance committee is in receipt of numerous requests from all over the country asking for hearings. As no hearings on the bill were given by the house committee, it is only reasonable that opportunity should be permitted by the senate."

TAFT'S PLANS UNCERTAIN.

Washington, June 16.—President Taft has been unable to complete his summer plans owing to the uncertainty of the date on which congress will adjourn, but it was announced today that the president, Mrs. Taft and their children will go to the summer white house at Beverly, Mass., July 1. Mrs. Taft and the children will remain there the rest of the summer. The president's stay at Beverly will be brief as he will almost immediately leave for Marion, Ind., to address the Indiana State Bankers' association Monday morning, July 3. He will arrive at Indianapolis before midnight and become the guest of former Vice President Fairbanks.

President Taft will celebrate the Fourth at Indianapolis. Upon invitation of Senator Kern he will review a "safe and sane" Fourth parade in the forenoon and in the afternoon will witness a head-on collision of locomotives at the fair grounds. In the evening he will speak at the Marion club and witness the fireworks display.

Returning from his Indiana trip the president expects to reach Washington on the morning of July 6.

ROCKEFELLER AT HIS SUMMER HOME

Oil King Reaches Cleveland and Begs Reporters to Spare Him.

NOT A WORD TO SAY

Cleveland, O., June 16.—Bemoaning the fate that made it impossible for him to visit Cleveland without attracting newspaper men to the railway station, John D. Rockefeller arrived here today for his annual summer stay at Forest Hill, his estate in East Cleveland. He was accompanied by Mrs. Rockefeller and the latter's sister, Miss Lucy Spellman.

The oil king did not leave his private car until the train on which he made the trip from Pocantico Hills, N. Y., was almost ready to pull out. He was immediately surrounded by a flock of reporters.

"Please, please, gentlemen," pleaded the richest man in the world, "don't question me! Please, please!"

And he added: "Why can't I be allowed to come home like an ordinary man?"

G. A. Rudd, Mr. Rockefeller's brother-in-law, and H. M. Adams, an attaché of Forest Hill, met the party at the station and whisked its members away to Forest Hill in an automobile.

MERE WAGE SQUABBLE.

Shipping Strike Has Little the Look of Industrial War.

London, June 15.—The shipping strike has developed largely into a squabble over wages, and outside of a few mail steamers the ship owners generally are not suffering appreciable inconvenience. The number of the strikers is limited strictly to deck hands. Despite the concession of $2.50 a month in wages made by the Canadian Pacific Railway company yesterday, when the time came for the signing of a crew for the Empress of Ireland today, the company was forced to concede an additional $1.25.

The original demand of the men was for an advance of $5 a month.

ELECTRO TECHNIC TO PLAY.

The Electro Technic band has been secured to provide music for the mass meeting of south side citizens and city officials Monday evening at No. 3 pumping station on South Broadway. C. H. Warden, president of the Civic Improvement association, the members of the park board and others will speak in furtherance of the effort to provide a park for the south side.

shares of common stock. Their largest holdings, he added, were in a Louisiana cane sugar refinery in which they had invested about $1,000,000. The witness said the American Beet Sugar company had never had any connection with the American Sugar Refining company except a contract in 1902 under which the latter became the "selling agent" of the former.

"Didn't it say where your sugar was to be sold?" inquired Chairman Hardwick.

"No," replied Mr. Oxnard. "There was a provision that it was to be sold everywhere except in New England."

The witness said the contract was in existence only three years although it was to run ten years.

"You lived up to the contract didn't you?" asked Chairman Hardwick.

"Well, I suppose so."

"They lived up to it?"

"They really had nothing to do."

Affraid of the Anti-Trust Law.

"Why did you go into it then? Wasn't it because of the American Sugar company's cutting prices in Missouri river territory in 1901?"

"I don't know that that was the reason. It may have been one."

Chairman Hardwick went to know why the contract was abandoned.

"I ceased to be president in 1906," said Mr. Oxnard. "My brother succeeded me and Col. Duval came on the board. The colonel was familiar with the railroad and the Sherman law. He said there, this violates the Sherman anti-trust law."

"H. O. Havemeyer, of the American Sugar Refining company, wanted the contract to be continued the year but Mr. Cutting said 'no, this contract ends today,' so that was amen and the thing was dead from that day."

After a long discussion of the beet sugar industry and the tariff on raw and refined sugar, Mr. Oxnard asked to be allowed to make a statement.

What Trust Has Done for Beet Sugar.

"Quite a little has been said about the trust controlling the beet sugar refineries," he said. "The trust does not control all told more than 20 percent of the beet sugar industry and the beet sugar people compete with the output of the other refining companies. There is no such thing as a restraint of trade between the beet sugar people and the other people."

"I think you should give the devil his due. If the trust had not come into the beet sugar business in this country the industry would not have advanced as it has. It had the money and brains and chemists to put into the work."

DEATH CALLS VETERAN JUDGE.

George W. Beaman, of Starks County, Succumbs to Blood Poisoning.

Laporte, Ind., June 15.—Judge George W. Beaman, 68 years old, of Starks county, Ohio, died yesterday, having succumbed to blood poisoning, which developed in one of his toes which was frozen last winter. He was unconscious for thirty-six hours. Judge Beaman was attorney for the Nickel Plate railroad. He is survived by a widow and one son. The latter is a student at West Point Military academy.

AUTO AND TRUCK MEET.

Smash Up Caused By Too Much Speed and a Slippery Pavement.

One of the auto trucks of the Motor Transfer company collided with a touring car belonging to Charles J. Chandler, of Detroit, in Harrison and Wayne streets at noon today and the car was badly battered up, but not disabled. The step was torn off on one side and the front end of the truck was sprung and the gasoline tank punctured. A slippery pavement and high speed of both are responsible for the accident. None of the occupants of either car was hurt.

THE DEATHS.

HOBSON.

Eliza May Hobson, 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hobson, died Thursday evening at the family residence, 1815 East Creighton avenue. Death was due to complications. Funeral services Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence.

NETTERFIELD.

Herman C. Netterfield, aged 63 years and 10 days, died at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening at the family residence, 1421 Huestis avenue. Death was due to complications. The deceased was born June 5, 1847, in Ohio, and had been a resident of Fort Wayne for the past fifteen years. He was a timber buyer by occupation. He is survived by a widow, two brothers, Joseph Netterfield, of this city, and Charles G. Netterfield, of Grand Rapids; two sisters, Mrs. T. B. Woodard and Mrs. Wm. Leeper, both of this city.

Funeral services Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock at the residence, Rev. McCarty officiating. Interment at Ossian cemetery.

FUNERAL NOTICES.

Werkart.—Funeral services for Jacob Werkart will be held Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the residence, 501 State street, thence to the Parker chapel at 2:30 o'clock.

RECIPROCITY

Mr. Taft today accepted life membership in and the honorary vice presidency of the American Flag Association of New York.

An invitation to witness the ceremonies incident to the reception by the United States government of a Confederate cemetery at Springfield, Mo., in September was taken under advisement by President Taft today. Both the United Confederate Veterans and the G. A. R. urged the president to attend.

IS CRITICALLY ILL.

The many friends of Mrs. Martin B. Ankenburg, of 514 East Washington street, wife of ex-Chief of Police Martin B. Ankenburg, will regret to hear that she is critically ill at St. Joseph's hospital, and that very little hope of her recovery is entertained. Mrs. Ankenburg became ill last Tuesday and was taken to St. Joseph's hospital about 5 o'clock Thursday evening and operated on for appendicitis, which developed into acute peritonitis. Her condition following the operation was extremely critical, and was reported to be worse this noon.

GAVE INFORMAL RECEPTION.

Mrs. Frank M. Randall, of Broadway, entertained informally this afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock in honor of her daughter, Miss May, who is soon to be married to Austin McChesney, an electrical engineer who is located in Detroit, Mich. Old family friends, as well as friends of Miss Randall, were asked to call this afternoon, and Miss Ruth Randall assisted her mother and sister in receiving.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Seaver C. Granger, 21, barber, and Margaret M. Granger, 21, haberdashery, of Detroit, Ind., were married at 10 o'clock today at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Granger, 22, German, and Helen G. Granger, 19.

PROTEST ON THE PAYMENT OF RENT

Market People Inject a Little Mystery Into City Affairs.

DECLINE TO EXPLAIN

Market gardeners and farmers who have stalls in the city market are paying their rents under protest and when asked for their reasons say they are doing it as a matter of protection.

That there is a movement of some kind to attack the ordinance under which the market stands are rented is evident, but just what is in the wind is being kept quiet for the present. Many of the gardeners simply said when they were asked about the matter that they had been told to have their receipts marked, "paid under protest," and they didn't know why, but whatever is contemplated has been pretty generally circulated.

Railroads Have Question.

The railroad officials who were at the meeting Thursday afternoon with the board of public works were inclined to find fault with the administration because of the new turn in the matter of opening a street west of Calhoun and east of Fairfield avenue. The Wabash complained that it had been given to understand that Harrison street had been selected and the Pennsylvania kicked because its officers thought Webster street had practically been agreed upon. However, they received the city's ultimatum without commenting on what might be done in the matter.

At the meeting of the board of public works Thursday night the allocating Construction company was given the contract for paving between the street car tracks on Spy Run avenue.

A contract for cement walks on Kentucky avenue, from Forest avenue to State street, was awarded to John P. Brooks.

Plans for new walks on Lantz avenue, from Forest avenue to State street, were adopted.

A petition signed by twelve property owners asking the extension of Cass street, from Sixth street to Miller's lane, was referred to the city engineer.

MUSTER AT PIERCETON.

Fifteen Young Men There Join Battery B. Fort Wayne.

Captain Harry Clark, of Battery B, mustered to Piercetion Thursday night and wintered in a section of fifteen men. Walter Long, who has been a member of the battery for the past six years, will have charge of drilling the section, which drills once a week at Piercetion, and reports to Battery B's army, in Fort Wayne, for drill once a month.

Lieutenants L. F. Wood and Otto Britzenhofe, of Battery B, who have been at Fort Riley, Kansas, for the past fifteen days attending the artillery school, will return home Saturday. During Lieutenant Britzenhofe's absence, Corporal Stahl has assumed the care of the ordinance. Lieutenant Edward Calvert, district commander of the Toledo army recruiting district, was in the city today, and passed the following recruits, who were sent to Columbus barracks: Clarence Peiffer, Autwerp, O., infantry; O. P. Kelly, Bryant, Indiana; and Michael Figlio, coast artillery.

FIND TWO BODIES.

New York, June 16.—Two bodies believed to be those of Lemuel E. Smith, Jr., and George Schultz, were recovered from the Kill von Kull, behind Staten Island today. Both were members of the yachting party of five that vanished in a thunderstorm last Saturday night. Search is now being continued for the bodies of Lemuel E. Smith, Sr., his wife and Mrs. Millard, the other members of the party.

BOSS COX WINS AGAIN.

Cincinnati, June 16.—Judge William B. Dickson today quashed again the revived indictment against George B. Cox charging him with perjury. The action came after affidavits charging Dickson with bias and prejudices had been filed by the prosecutor, but the court held that this could not affect his ruling as it was taken on a motion for a rehearing filed before the affidavits.

Henry Wahrenberg has been awarded the contract for the erection of the new Wayne township school building at Hanna street and the Piqua road upon his bid of $10,907.

YOUNG WOMEN TO ASK CITIZENSHIP

German Girls Declare Their Intention and Get Papers.

MATTERS IN COURT

Minnie Ramlow, twenty-four years old and domestic, and Matilda Wald, two years older and engaged in the same occupation, declared in the circuit court today their intention of becoming citizens of the United States and received their first papers.

This is the first case in the recollection of the attaches of the office that women have asked to be citizens and in the absence of their attorney, who could not be found, no information was obtained as to why they took the step.

Both will leave here for Chicago in a short time and unless they have some property interests that are involved and for which they are seeking government protection, no reason can be assigned for their request.

Has Drunken Husband.

Catherine Stoll says she has a drunken husband who wants to get rid of her and she has applied to the circuit court for a divorce from him and the restoration of her maiden name of Lauer. They were married Nov. 12, 1891, and she charges he abandoned her in October, 1910.

Articles Are Filed.

Articles of incorporation of the Hanna-Brackendridge company were filed with the county recorder. The capital stock is $100,000, half common, and the preferred stock can be retired at $103 in five years. The directors are Samuel D. Hanna, Edward White, William T. Brackendridge, John J. H. Lammel and Louis Hoes.

Says Husband Choked Her.

In her complaint for divorce Nettie Seibert says that her husband choked her and called her bad names. She also charges that he jerked chairs from under her when she attempted to sit on them and that he is an habitual drunkard. They were married July 3, 1906 and have one child. Somers and Kenner are her attorneys.

Had to Ask Charity.

In the superior court Elizabeth Seitz was granted a divorce from Emmanuel Seitz after she had testified that he drank up his wages and forced her to apply to the township trustee for aid in the support of their family. They have had seven children and he is an able bodied man but contributes nothing to his family.

GOVERNMENT AIDS MONOPOLY.

Washington, June 16.—Charges that officials of the postoffice department are aiding and abetting the existence of a monopoly in the mail chute business, were made today before the house committee on expenditures in that department by F. T. Nesbit, of New York, a contractor, and Edwin F. Naul, a president of a mail chute company in New York. They complained that a Rochester, N. Y., company has been maintained in its monopoly of the business by the methods of the department. Mr. Naul declared that his company had been prevented from competing with the Rochester company not only on government contracts but in contracts for the equipment of private buildings with mail chutes.

HANGED FOR MURDER.

Danville, Ill., June 16.—Alexander King, a white man, was hanged in the county jail at Harrisburg, Saline county, Ill., at 9:30 o'clock this morning for the murder of his father-in-law, James Mitchell, at Cherry Mills last fall. The condemned man went to the gallows with a firm step. He had nothing to say. About 500 persons witnessed the execution.

STATE NORMAL COMMENCEMENT

Terre Haute, Ind., June 16.—At the 28th annual commencement exercises of the Indiana State Normal school held here this morning 246 were given diplomas or certificates of graduation. Dr. Henry C. King, of Oberlin college, Ohio, delivered the address.

THE OLD MAINE A CRUMBLING WRECK

Water Further Lowered is Baring Rusting and Mud-filled Hull.

NO BODIES ARE SEEN

Havana, June 16.—A greatly increased area of the wreck of the battleship Maine was exposed to view at 10:30 o'clock this morning when the water level within the coffer dam had been lowered to a total of 10 1/2 feet below normal.

The portions of the ill-fated warship now above the water include the whole of the after-superstructure and most of the spar deck aft of the port turret.

Everywhere the iron exposed, if not shattered by the explosion, has been so corroded as to be reduced to mere shells, making it highly probable that the plan to repair and float any part of the ship must be abandoned, because of complete structural degeneration.

No trace of bodies has been found in the docks or superstructures. The whole interior of the wreck is so choked with mud that it is improbable that any attempt will be made to enter the ship until tomorrow.

It was expected that by night fall the water in the coffer dam would be lowered a total of fourteen or fifteen feet.

IVERNIA IS FLOATED.

Queenstown, June 16.—The Cunard steamship Ivernia, which struck near Daunt Rock during a fog on May 21, when bound for Queenstown and Liverpool from Boston, was refloated today and towed further in shore for a completion of temporary repairs, which will enable her to proceed to Liverpool.

YOUNG VANDERBILT HURT.

PROGRAM FOR A JOYFUL LIFE.

I will try to do God's will every day.
I will try to see the good in the world and in my neighbor.

I will not worry over matters I can not help, and over those I can help I do not need to worry.

I will keep my mind and heart in touch with the great things of the universe.

I will learn to enjoy the free gifts of God to men, like nature and the facts of physical powers.

I will learn to prize all my human friendships.

I will help some one to a happier life every day.

I will magnify my place in the kingdom of God.

I will enjoy the friendship of Christ as my Redeemer and Brother.

"Hope thou in God."
"Rejoice in the Lord always."—Ex.

WILL WOMEN PUT AN END TO WAR?

In Her Latest Book Olive Schreiner Writes Incisively of the Subject.

Olive Schreiner, the author of "The Story of an African Farm," declares that war must end and that it is not the gentlemen of diplomatic circles and peace societies, but women, gaining a full half in the government of the nations, who will bring peace. In her new book "Woman and Labor," which has been called "The Bible of the Woman's Movement," Mrs. Schreiner makes a declaration of independence of all women; with international brotherhood as one of its clauses.

Writing of Pom-Pom Music. Her attitude toward war is not merely theoretical, for Mrs. Schreiner went through the whole Boer war. Much of this very book was rewritten while she was held prisoner in a fortified town. While she was writing, says she, "all day the pom-poms from the armored trains could be heard at intervals, and at night there was the tramp of the watch with the endless 'Who goes there?' When a conflict was fought near by, the dead and wounded were brought in. Under these conditions I had to force my thought from the horror of the world around me, to dwell on some abstract question, and it was under these circumstances that this book 'Woman and Labor' was written."

A good part of her time must have been spent in thinking very incisively about war. She declares, to quote:

Women Pay the Cost of War.

"For, today we take all labor for our province, and more particularly in war do we intend to play our part. We have always borne the major part of the weight of war. It is not that in primitive times we suffered from the destruction of the houses we built; it is not that later as domestic laborers, we, in material loss and additional labor, paid as much as the male toward the cost of war; nor is it even because the spirit of resolution in its women and their willingness to endure, has, in all ages, largely determined the fate of a race that goes to war; we demand our controlling right where war is concerned. Our relation to war is far more intimate, personal.

"Men have made swords or guns with which to destroy each other; we have made the men who destroyed and were destroyed! We have in all ages produced at an enormous cost, the primal munition of war. There is no battle on earth, however covered with slain, which it has not cost the women of the race more in actual bloodshed and anguish to supply than it has cost the men who lie there. We pay the first cost on all human life.

"In supplying the men for the carnage of a battlefield, women have not merely lost actually more blood, and gone through a more acute anguish and weariness, in the long months of bearing, in the final agony of childbirth, than has been experienced by the men who cover it; but, in the long months of rearing that follow, the women of the race go through a long, patiently endured strain which no krapacked soldier on his longest march has more than equalled; while, even in the matter of death, in all civilized societies, the probability that the average woman will die in childbirth is immeasurably greater than the probability that the average male will die in battle!

The Horror of War.

"There is, perhaps, no woman who could look upon a battlefield but the thought would rise in her, 'So many mothers' sons! So many months of weariness and pain while bones and muscles were shaped within; all this that men might lie with glazed eyeballs and swollen faces and fixed, blue, unclosed mouths, and great limbs tossed—this that an acre of ground might be manured with human flesh, that next year's grass or poppies or karoo bushes may spring up greener and render!'"

"Women do not shrink from war because they lack courage. Nor will woman's influence militate against war because in the future woman will not be able physically to bear her part in it. The smaller size of her muscle, which might severely have disadvantaged her when war was conducted with a battleax or sword, would now little or not at all affect her. She might acquire the skill for guiding a Maxim or shooting down a foe with a Lee-Netford at 4,000 yards as ably as any male. It is not because of woman's cowardice, incapacity, nor her general superior virtue, that she will end war, when her voice is fully and clearly heard in the governance of states—it is because on this one point the knowledge of woman, simply as woman, is superior to that of man: she knows the history of human flesh; she knows its cost; he does not."

When Women Rule.

How are women to stop war, however? At this question, Mrs. Schreiner does not hesitate. The whole of "Woman and Labor" is an answer to it: for the contention of the book is that women must take and are taking a full half in all the labor of the world, including government. Mrs. Schreiner declares, to continue the quotation:

"On that day when the woman takes her place beside the man in the governance of the affairs of her race, will also be that day that heralds the death of war as a means of arranging human differences. No thud of trumpets and flag will ultimately seduce women into the insanity of recklessly destroying life.

"In a besieged city, it might well happen that men in the streets might seize upon statues and hurl them in to stop the breaches made in their ramparts by the enemy. One man, however, could not do this—the sculptor. He would seek to throw in even gold and silver before he sacrificed its works of art!

"Men's bodies are our women's works of art. Given to us power to control, we will never carelessly throw them in to fill up the gaps in human relationships made by international greed. Arbitration and compensation would as naturally occur to women as cheaper and simpler methods of bridging the gaps in national relationships, as to the sculptor it would occur to throw in anything rather than statues." From "Woman and Labor," Stokes, 1911.

DO NOT RESORT TO MAKESHIFT WAYS.

There is the serious objection to any makeshift fashion of dealing with the garbage problem that it will solve nothing and settle nothing. Provision should be made for dealing with conditions in a city of 70,000 people and the old system and the old plant cannot be in any way expanded to meet such needs. There must be a new system of collection, a new and modern plant for destruction located in a new place. The present crematory should not be where it is at the entrance to one of the city's parks.

A plant that will take care of all the garbage an efficient system of collection can carry to it must be provided and it is an imperative duty of the city to set about finding out what will best serve the city's needs. Today more garbage is going into the sewers than goes to the crematory. All sorts of refuse that should be destroyed by fire is being dumped into domestic sewer basins to go into the conduits there to rot and ferment and make a constantly accumulating obstruction to the flow of sewage. So long as garbage collection is inefficient this household method of disposing of garbage will be resorted to and the evil consequences, with all their interferences with sanitation and menaces to health, will multiply.

We are constrained to repeat what was said in this column yesterday that the city council ought to make provision for acquainting itself with what is needed and the best way to supply it. That body could easily learn at small cost what progressive cities have done to solve their garbage problems and a commission of say three members could make an inquiry that would be of inestimable benefit to Fort Wayne. We hope to see timely action on this matter to the end that a useless expenditure of money trying to make the present discredited system meet conditions may be avoided and that approved methods may be inaugurated at an early day.

It is clear that if the old Maine was destroyed by an explosion from without the preparations were thorough and the means employed were ample for the fell work. The pumping of the sea from within the big cofferdam enclosing the wreck discloses that the destruction was much worse than had ever been imagined. An exterior explosion may have caused her magazines to go off and so wrought the destroying work with the completeness that is beginning to be laid bare. A few days' more effort will settle once for all how the Maine was destroyed. Meanwhile, there cannot be two opinions concerning the duty of this government to make the investigation and still less is there ground for questioning the obligation of patriotism and decency to recover the bodies of the martyrs yet in the hulk and give them honorable burial. That much should long ago have dictated the work now in hand if there had never been any question of the means by which the ill-fated warship was sent to the sea bottom.

Congressman Barnhart, of the Thirtieth Indiana district, has presented to congress a bill the design of which is to keep predatory interests from engaging in the newspaper business and deceiving the people with fictitious news and misleading opinions. By the provisions of his bill the names of editors, publishers and owners of newspapers must be conspicuously displayed in each issue of the paper and such editors, publishers and owners must be certified to the postoffice department before a publication may have the privilege of the mails. Congressman Barnhart is a veteran publisher and editor and he believes that such a law is needed. It is his conviction that "big" business and corporate interests have extensively engaged in the business of newspaper publication in order to influence public opinion against the public welfare. He cites two notorious instances furnished by Chicago newspapers as showing the need of such a law.

A report given out from the office of the state statistician shows that during last year there were performed 30,677 marriages and granted 4,632 divorces in Indiana. The divorces were almost 12 per cent of the marriage, or in other words for every eight couples united one couple was separated by decree of the law. This is an evil ratio, showing that the sanctity of marriage acts with little constraint and that the moral and legal obligations of wedlock rest but lightly upon a great percentage of the couples who enter into its relations. The ease with which the coils of marriage may be shuffled off in the courts is a menace to society and the home and calls for reform of the divorce law.

There is an unpleasant accumulation of evidence that Senor Madero is going to have trouble with some of his revolutionary armies before permanent peace and lasting reforms are established in Mexico. Some of the insurgent bodies refuse to disarm and seem to be still hungering for a fight. The forthcoming elections will test the strength of the new regime and its power and capacity to rule the Mexicans in a better way than Diaz practiced.

President Taft believes he sees the breaking of the light upon the senate and that his Canadian reciprocity bill is going through as he wants it to go through. Senator Root is reported to about given up hope of maintaining his amendment and expects of see it go to the discard. The president has waged a determined fight and has stuck to his guns with fine resoluteness. The recalcitrants are about ready to come over.

Many households modify the embarrassment occasioned by the garbage man's delinquencies by dumping their refuse in the sewers. That gets it away from sight and smell of the backdoor, but it does nothing to solve the garbage problem and it does rather complicate the sewer problem.

It may be well for the democrats of the house to start something with respect to the sugar and steel schedules. The country is now awake to some facts that it may easily forget by the time another session of congress rolls round.

Senor Cipriano Castro is in Haiti. Also he is in Spain. Likewise he is at Willemstad. Other places harboring him will do well to expel him as a disturber and conspirator.

The Indiana public accounting laws would be a good thing to apply to the state department in Washington.

THE GRAND RAPIDS IDEA.

(The Outlook.)

The latest theory to be developed in the evolution of municipal government is the "Grand Rapids idea"—an idea which may be destined to become as famous as the commission plan. The new Grand Rapids charter has not yet been submitted to the people. But it contains original provisions of such character as to have already attracted wide interest among students of civic reform. Grand Rapids proposes to use "the cabinet plan" as set off against the "commission plan"; and it is declared that the Grand Rapids idea saves all of the advantages which reside in commission government and eliminates all of the evils attaching thereto. A non-partisan mayor, upon whom responsibility is directly concentrated, heads the city government. He is, in fact and in name, in theory and in practice, the general manager of the municipality. Under him the administration of city affairs is grouped into four departments—public health and safety, finance and accounting, public works, parks and public property. At the head of each department is a department manager, who is appointed by the mayor for service during good behavior. These four department managers constitute the mayor's cabinet (modeled after the federal presidential cabinet plan), and the cabinet, with the mayor, constitutes an administrative authority of the city. Meanwhile, the legislative functions—which are entirely separated from the administrative functions—are entrusted to a common council of twelve members. One objection urged against the so-called commission plan is that both legislative and administrative functions are joined in a single body—a juncture, which is hostile to the American idea of governmental organization. Another objection is that the commission plan requires the popular election of administrative department heads, who should be employed because of their peculiar fitness and ability for the task in hand rather than because they happen to be able to get the votes. Both objections are overcome in the Grand Rapids cabinet idea; and yet real advantage of the commission plan is saved. The Grand Rapids plan, furthermore, retains the purely legislative body which is characteristic of American governmental ideas, as evident in every state and in the union of states itself. The Grand Rapids charter contains many features that have characterized municipal reform in other places—the "short ballot," the elimination of party nominations, the initiative, referendum and recall, restrictions of franchises and the recognition of the need of civic centers by the establishment of an appropriate commission. In those respects in which it is experimental, this charter is worthy of study by other municipalities.

MORGAN'S CO-OPERATION.

(New York World.)

In his earlier testimony before the house committee that is investigating the steel trust Judge Gary advocated government regulation of corporations even to the matter of prices.

In his later testimony, taking Mr. Morgan's great financial power for good or evil as a text, he expressed the belief that this country must soon come to the position "where there is co-operation between the government and the individual."

So far as Mr. Morgan is concerned this co-operation between the government and the individual is an established fact.

Mr. Morgan organizes a billion-dollar steel trust and capitalizes the tariff, and the government maintains practically prohibitive duties on steel to enable him to keep the corporation afloat.

Mr. Morgan's steel trust reaches out for the Tennessee Coal and Iron company, its most formidable competitor, and President Roosevelt licenses the merger, regardless of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Mr. Morgan desires to lend money to China and the state department straightway begins bulldozing China to become a Morgan debtor.

Mr. Morgan extends his influence over banks and trust companies and the treasury department is an ever-present help to him in time of trouble.

Mr. Morgan acts as fiscal agent for the foreign bondholders of Central American republics and the state department uses its power to compel official recognition of the Morgan function.

Mr. Morgan's former partner is made American ambassador to France and the Paris bourse soon begins to list American securities in which Mr. Morgan is interested.

President Roosevelt "takes" the Panama canal zone and Mr. Morgan is found acting as fiscal agent for the United States government in the transaction.

Mr. Morgan's New York partner handled life insurance contributions for the Roosevelt campaign fund and Mr. Morgan's Philadelphia partner always collects the Pennsylvania contributions for the republican campaign fund in presidential years.

For the last fifteen years Mr. Morgan has been "co-operating" with the United States government and the United States government has been "co-operating" with Mr. Morgan.

How much more of this "co-operation" does Judge Gary think the country will stand?

(The Survey.)

Farming is one of the industries in which common report has it that the labor supply is inadequate. "The results of our inquiry," says the supplementary report of the new York commission on employers' liability, "by no means confirm the popular opinion that farm labor offers unlimited opportunity to the unemployed if only they could be induced to accept it." The inquiry does show that during the harvest season there is a very large unsatisfied demand for farm labor, since farming is a seasonal trade par excellence. In many sections of the state, too, the supply of permanent workmen on farms is inadequate. In spite of low pay, averaging $1.25 a day with board or $1.65 without, and for harvest work $1.75 with or $2.07 without board, and long hours, the day averaging nine and one-half hours, exclusive of chores, which take from one to five hours, it is an undoubted fact that some men would undertake this employment if a system of labor bureaus were available through which they could hear of the work.

INDIANA DIVORCE RECORD VERY BAD

Reaches 4,632 in 1910, a Gain of 200 Over the Previous Year.

SOME OF THE CAUSES

Indianapolis, Ind., June 16.—There were 4,632 divorces granted in Indiana in 1910, according to statistics compiled in the office of the state statistician and announced yesterday. There were only 29,677 marriages licenses issued during the year—scarcely more than six times the number of divorces. The latter figures are regarded in excess, because some licenses issued were never used.

Of the divorces granted, the wives had much the better of the argument collectively. Legal separations were granted to women in 3,475 cases, while men asked freedom in only 1,157 cases, according to the figures. The statistician's office has compared the total number of divorces granted and marriage licenses issued with those of 1909, 1908, 1907 and 1906. The divorces granted in 1909 were almost 200 less than those granted last year. They reached 4,434, with the wives winning the cases in 3,169 instances and the husbands in 1,265 cases. The total number of marriage licenses granted in 1909 was 28,525. For 1908 the total number of divorces granted was 4,253. The wives won in 3,135 cases and the husbands in 1,118. The total number of marriage licenses issued amounted to 26,990 in 1908.

Fourteen Causes Given. In 1907 the figures for both were lower. Wives obtained divorces in 2,967 cases and husbands in 1,913, making the total number of divorces granted during the year 4,880. The marriage licenses were much more numerous than in the preceding year; due, it is said at the state statistician's office, to the panic of 1908. The total number for 1907 reached 29,504.

In 1906 the total number of divorces was only 3,969, of which 2,735 were granted women and 1,234 to men.

The causes of divorces granted have been tabulated for 1910 from all the counties by the state official's office and they follow, specifying to which party the decree was granted:

Abandonment (wife)—754 cases.
Abandonment (husband)—369 cases.
Adultery (wife)—161 cases.
Adultery (husband)—223 cases.
Criminal Conviction (wife)—45 cases.
Criminal Conviction (husband)—6 cases.
Cruel Treatment (wife)—123 cases.
Cruel Treatment (husband)—42 cases.
Drunkenness (wife)—387 cases.
Drunkenness (husband)—35 cases.
Failure to Provide (wife)—608 cases.
Failure to Provide (husband)—None.
Other Causes (wife)—179 cases.
Other Causes (husband)—81 cases.
Marion county led in the number of divorces granted with 598 to wives and 110 to husbands. Vigo was next with a total of 220 divorces. Then came Vanderburgh with 176 divorces, Allen with 171, St. Joseph with 170, Delaware with 147, Grant with 122 and Cass with 115.

Ohio Practically Free.

Ohio county won the blue ribbon for harboring least domestic infidelity. Only one divorce was granted there during the year. Marion county led in the number of divorces granted with 598 to wives and 110 to husbands. Vigo was next with a total of 220 divorces. Then came Vanderburgh with 176 divorces, Allen with 171, St. Joseph with 170, Delaware with 147, Grant with 122 and Cass with 115.

TO PALE THIN PEOPLE.

uggists Meyer Bros. Co. Offer to Pay for Samose if it Does Not Make Thin People Fat.

Pale, thin people are simply suffer-g from want of nourishment. They y eat enough, but their food is not opely digested and does them no
od. Samose, the remarkable flesh form-g food, should be used by all who a pale, weak and thin. It mingles
th the food and aids assimilation,
that when taken for a short time,
ure will soon assert her normal wers and the food that is eaten will e strength and good flesh.

The woman who longs for rosy
ecks and the plumpness of beauty could use Samose. The man who ants to be strong and well and gain alth and good flesh will find his des accomplished by Samose.

Such remarkable results have folwed the use of Samose that Druc-s Meyer Bros. Co. are willing to y for the treatment if it does not e the desired results. They make e offer generally and want all who e thin, weak and out of health to t a box of Samose from them on see terms.

NEGROES AFRAID OF TONY RIDLEY

Question of His Sanity Raised and He Will Have Hearing.

CITY COURT DOCKET

Acquaintances of Tony Ridley, the young negro in jail for making a murderous assault upon his aged mother a week ago, are afraid of him and on their assertion that he is of unsound mind it is likely that he will be given an examination by a commission before his case is again called in court.

The case was continued in the city court this morning for a week as the mother was not able to appear and in the meantime the authorities will decide what action to take on the insanity proposition.

Sadie Roubesh, nee Porter, was in for plain drunk and drew a fine of $5 and costs. She didn't seem especially worried about the fine, but she regretted that her name would appear in print and said she felt sure the papers would refer to the fact that she was formerly Sadie Porter.

The case against William McDonald was continued until tomorrow and he was let go on his own recognizance. He promised to report and to keep sober. He fell Thursday and cut his head and bled almost to death.

William Wilson got out of jail Tuesday and got work Wednesday and got drunk Thursday and got eleven days Friday.

THE POWER OF REPOSE.

If you do not believe your thoughts leave their imprint on your face, catch yourself some time when you are worried or nervous, hold your expression and hasten to the nearest mirror. You will be amazed at the cross-patch lines drawn across the forehead, between the eyes and around the mouth. They change the entire expression of the face, like a mask of gloom or foreboding.

Sometimes these discordant lines are not so much the result of a troubled mind as of strained nerves. To pitch oneself in a high key and remain that way during all the waking hours is a strain that sooner or later must write itself in lines of distress all over the face. Such an expression breeds doubt and discord in every one we meet. Instead of placing them in a pleasant and receptive state of mind, they are thrown into a condition of uneasiness,
and if our mission is one of business
the outcome is certain to be unsatisfactory. Serenity is just as contagious as turmoil. It rests with the individual as to which one he wishes to radiate.

Frowning or puckering the face into queer shapes may be simply due to habit. The only way to overcome this tendency is to form the habit of glancing into a mirror whenever the opportunity presents and forcing the face
into a natural shape with a pleasant expression. This is quite as effective as the numerous remedies applied locally for the eradicating of wrinkles, as the good effects secured by such application over night may be totally destroyed by the cross-patch lines of the day.

SHERIFF IS AUTO ENTHUSIAST.

Noble County Officer Uses Motor Car
in His Work.

Sheriff P. J. Stanley, of Noble county, accompanied by James B. Atwood, drove overland to this city yesterday in the former's automobile to purchase some needed auto supplies.
Both Sheriff Stanley and Mr. Atwood are prominent autoists of their county and this city has always been their base of supplies.

Sheriff Stanley, like many other Indiana officers, is a staunch enthusiast concerning the automobile question.
The Noble county officer has owned several cars and he attributes much of his success in capturing culprits to the use of his auto. Recently Sheriff Stanley drove the noted horse thief, John Kuhns, to Michigan City, where the latter started his prison term of three to twenty-one years for the stealing of a team of horses at Swan.
The officer favors the new sheriff alliance against horse thieves recently started by the local sheriff and he thinks the movement would be a greater success if all the county sheriffs would resort to autos to carry out their work.

Of all people perhaps none is more fond of canes or more skilled in their use than our fellow-citizens of Porto Rico. The walking stick in that island would seem to mark social distinctions
among them as fans do among women.
Every Spaniard has a cane, the well-
to-do own several, and the gilded youth often have a small arsenal of walking sticks. The term arsenal is used advisedly, as the Porto Ricans, like the Spaniards, have quite a fondness for sword canes and dagger canes and they make these with remarkable skill. The blades of the finer specimens come from famous smiths in Toledo and other Spanish cities and are forged from the finest steel. Some are damascened and others are inlaid with silver and gold, some have worked upon them the name of the owner and others the name of a patron saint—

The word "rabbits" on board a Cornish fishing smack arouses the ire of the crew. Should the hated word be uttered as the boat is leaving the harbor on a pichard expedition, the speaker would stand a fair chance of being hurled overboard. The mere mention of "rabbits" destroys all chances of a "catch."—London Chron-

MANY TURNERS ARE ARRIVING

must arrive in Fort Wayne tonight, and the evening hours are expected to bring the last of the twenty or more societies which have entered the lists.
Local committees headed by the City Packard band are meeting the incoming trains.

Driving Park Busy Place.

Out at the Driving park, where the competitions in the turner exercises will for the most part be given, the scene is a busy one. Within the big enclosure a tented city has sprung up, and the place is temporarily known as "Turnerville" or "Jahnville," the turnfest occurring on the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Turnfather Jahn, who was largely responsible for the popularizing of the Turner system of athletic training in Germany many years ago.

The turnfield proper has been constructed within the track enclosure immediately in front of the grand stand, while extending off to the west and north in the form of an L are double rows of sleeping tents in which the active turner societies who prefer to live in close proximity to the turnfield
rather than in the downtown hotels will be quartered during the turnfest.
There are nearly one hundred of these tents, each provided with cots and bedding necessities.

Three Hundred at Meal.

To the west and immediately north of the main exhibition building upon the fair ground is located the immense diningroom. The horticultural building is utilized, and it is enlarged by the erection of a tent to the east of it.
Here is a completely equipped kitchen with two large ranges, and here three hundred active turners will be fed during the turnfest. The first meal to be served is breakfast tomorrow morning at 6 o'clock.

Other tents upon the ground are provided for the turnfest headquarters,
the judges and accountants, the newspapers and the postoffice. A big staff of assistants is looking after the arrangements at the park and everything possible will be done for the comfort of the visitors. The sleeping tents are located upon high ground,
so that in the event of rain the occupants will hardly be discommoded as has been the case occasionally at the turnfests in other cities.

Headquarters Opened.

City headquarters were opened by the committee today at the hall of the Turn Verein Vorlaender on West Superior street, to which place arriving delegations are conducted for registration and assignment of quarters during their stay in Fort Wayne. There was regret that the weather today developed rain, but the turners were in no wise dismayed. They clung confidently to a promise of clearing weather, and declared that in any event the program would be given throughout as advertised.

Weeks of preparation and planning
have been given to the work of arranging for the turnfest, and it promises to be the greatest gathering of the German societies Indiana has ever seen. Members of the local committee today said that approximately $5,000
would be expended by the Turnverein Vorwaerds in caring for the turnfest.

Torchlight Parade Tonight.

The opening feature upon the four days program is the torchlight parade of the Turner societies to be given this evening, terminating at the Berry street front of the court house, where the formal exercises of welcome will occur. Here eight hundred public school children of Fort Wayne, massed
in the form of a living flag, will render "America" and "The Star Spangled Banner," under the direction of Prof.
William Miles, while electrical effects thrown from the Shoaff building will intensify the pretty effect. There will be song numbers by the German societies, and Mayor Jesse Grice and Hon. Adolph Roggen, district president of the turner societies, will be heard in brief addresses of welcome to the visitors.

A WONDERFUL SALE

Of Young Men's Fine Suits

The Store That Does Things

Starting promptly at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Driving park,
the visiting teams of active turners will compete in the long program of athletics. More than a score of the crack teams of the central west are entered, and half a dozen or more of them will work simultaneously.

Model exercises will follow during the afternoon, and Saturday evening
a magnificent exhibition will be given at the baseball park. The turner program will continue Sunday at the Driving park.

Another Parade Saturday.

The second final parade of the turn-fest will be given Saturday evening preceding the program at the baseball park. This will include all the German societies in the city that are in any way affiliated with the turner movement and many of them will be represented by very handsome floats which have been built especially for this occasion.

The big crowd of the event will come to the city on Saturday and Sunday, and several of the railroads will bring special trains of spectators who come to see the competition between the various teams of turners. The societies embrace teams from the districts of Wisconsin, Chicago, Lake Erie, Ohio and Indiana.

In the Competitions.

Competing for the wreaths which are the prized trophies of the turners will be the following societies:
Vorwaerds, Chicago, Otto Kanle, instructor; Chicago Turngemeinde, Albert Teuscher, instructor; South Side

HUNTINGTON LOAN AGENTS TROUBLED

Money Lenders Must Answer for Demanding High Rates of Interest.

Huntington, Ind., June 16.—When attempts at collections were made Wednesday in this city by several loan agents, at least three suits were threatened against the collectors of high interests. From the court of Squire A. J. Rosebrough came report of one, where complaint was made that on a loan of $30 secure two years ago payments amounting to $65 had been made and the loan shark had attempted Wednesday to secure an additional payment of $10. Squire Rosebrough says he has had a number of similar complaints recently and the individuals have threatened to enter suit for cancellation of mortgages and notes held by the loan men.

As there is a legal rate of interest in Indiana, certain business operations in effecting short-time loans and renewals at exorbitant rates, while possibly permitted, are restricted and settlements are usually effected before differences get into the courts. One man says he certainly will sacrifice a little notoriety just to bring about exposure of loan agency operations in Huntington. He says the business is conducted with a high hand and "many poor men suffer constantly as a result of the human money leeches."

OLD SETTLERS' MEETING.

Thirty-fourth Annual Gathering of Pioneers at St. Joe.

St. Joe, Ind., June 16.—The thirty-fourth annual meeting of old settlers was held at this place yesterday, and aside from the pioneers many of the younger generation were present to enjoy the festivities that always characterize these gatherings. A program of great interest was presented, consisting of music by Houlton's orchestra and the Coburn Farmer's band, address by Hon. J. E. Pomeroy, of Auburn, and short talks by Isaac Gundersen, Frank Willis and W. L. Blair, of Butler.

Several hundred guests were in the town during the celebration and the event proved to be a success in every way. An excellent dinner was served to the visiting farmers by the ladies of the Lutheran church.

MRS. BERRY GIVEN 3RD DEGREE.

Marion, Ind., June 16.—Believing she was in some manner connected with recent wholesale theft of horses in Lenawee county, Michigan, Sheriff L. L. Knowles and Under Sheriff Charles E. Henig, of Adrian, came to Marion Tuesday and interviewed Mrs. Rosa Berry, self-confessed horse thief, in the Grant county jail. They failed to connect her with any of the Michigan crimes. Mrs. Berry was tried on a charge of horse stealing in the circuit court last week, but, because of fault in the affidavit, she was found guilty of stealing a buggy. Sentence has not been passed.

BITTEN BY DOG.

Warsaw, Ind., June 16.—Anna, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Wyman, residing on East Center street of this city, was severely bitten by a dog Wednesday evening, causing a bad laceration of the cheek and frightening the child severely.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT EEL RIVER MEET

Christian Conference Addressed by Able Speakers—Many Register.

Bluffton, Ind., June 16.—At the first day's session of the Eel River Christian conference convention at the Six Mile church, east of this city, there were sixty delegates registered and over three hundred people attended the meetings. Yesterday the roll was increased by nearly sixty more delegates and the church could not seat the audience that gathered for the big day's work of the convention.

Three sessions were held on Wednesday and yesterday and nearly all of the business of the conference has been completed. Today finishes the great meeting and many of the delegates have left for their respective homes. Several excellent addresses were delivered during yesterday's sessions and the work of the church was covered in a very satisfactory manner. Rev. W. J. Young, of Piqua, O.; Rev. Purdue, of Warren, and Mrs. Abbie Kennison, of Huntington, were the principal speakers of the convention.

NEW PASTOR AT AUBURN.

Rev. Robt. I. Platter Accepts Call from Presbyterians.

Auburn, Ind., June 16.—Rev. Robert I. Platter, of Winchester, O., has accepted the call extended him to become pastor of the Presbyterian church here and will enter on his duties July 16. He takes the pulpit made vacant by the resignation of Rev. Walter M. Elliott, who went to Peoria, Ill., as the pastor of the Grace church in that city.

INSTITUTE PLANS DELAYED.

Huntington, Ind., June 16.—Election of a new county superintendent of schools to succeed Ira B. Potts has caused considerable delay in arrangements for the county teachers' institute usually planned early in the spring. This will be the first duties of his new position to be undertaken by Clifford Funderburg, who was chosen a few days ago to fill the superintendency, and quick action will be necessary to secure speakers and arrange the program for the gathering of instructors in schools of the county.

COSTLY BLAZE AT PERU.

Peru, Ind., June 16.—Starting shortly after midnight Thursday morning a fire which at times threatened to get beyond control of the firemen swept the big McCaffery & Company's department store here. At 5:30 in the morning, when the blaze was gotten under control the loss was estimated at from $50,000 to $75,000. Frequent explosions in the basement, where fire-arms and powder was stored, made the work of the fire fighters extremely hazardous.

FOUR CARRIERS ON DUTY.

Kendallville, Ind., June 16.—Beginning today four carriers will be placed in the service to deliver mail for Uncle Sam in the residence and business district of this city, Fern Haller being the new man on the job. The additional carrier is the result of the efforts of Postmaster C. C. Weingart, who for some time has been conferring with officials at Washington, which culminated in the visit of an inspector to this city who deemed it advisable to install another carrier.

WOMAN FATALLY HURT.

Warren, Ind., June 16.—Warren relatives received sad information Wednesday in a telegram from New York city that Mrs. George Whitacre, a former resident of this place, had sustained a broken back in an accident and there was no hope for her recovery. Mrs. Whitacre was formerly Miss Lulu Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Thompson, now residents of Marion. Her husband is a theatrical man and they have lived in the east several years.

WATERLOO TO CELEBRATE.

Waterloo, Ind., June 16.—Waterloo has finally made up its mind to celebrate the glorious Fourth this year. The money necessary is about all subscribed and committees are at work securing attractions and making out the program. Of course with the champion ball team of the county right at home that sport will be one of the features of the day. Waterloo wants every one to come and have a good time.

ORDER NEW SIDEWALKS.

Churubusco, Ind., June 16.—The town board of this place, composed of W. K. Burwell, F. M. Sondag and J. A. Pressler, have passed a resolution ordering thirty-four property owners to get busy and build sidewalks, and they did not take any extra care in selecting the people to whom the order was issued. The date of Wednesday night, June 28th, has been set for a hearing, if those interested have anything to complain about.

FIREMEN CHARTER CAR.

Bluffton, Ind., June 16.—The members of the city fire department are rapidly completing details for attending the annual convention of Indiana Volunteer Firemen, to be held at Winchester on June 29, and Wednesday evening contracted for a special car with the Indiana Union Traction company.

MEXICANS KILL AMERICANS.

American Vice Consul at Ensenada Reports Dangerous Turbulence.

Washington, June 16.—Two Americans, Dr. Foster and Patrick Glennon have been killed in Alamo, Mexico, and Mr. Sawdai, the American vice consul at Ensenada, in reporting the state of the department, adds that there is dangerous turbulence at Ensenada, and that the Mexicans causing the trouble were to a great extent recruited in the United States, some being reported to be naturalized American citizens. The state department has reminded the Mexican government that some time ago it gave permission for Mexican troops to cross American territory with a view to the restoration of peace and order in Lower California, and that it is now depending upon Mexico to make these outrages impossible.

Progress has been made during the year on the Ichang-Wanhsien railway, China, and there are now 20,000 men employed on it. Construction trains are running for five or six miles from Ichang, and the embankment is almost completed for about thirteen miles. The first tunnel, which occurs at this point and is some 1,000 feet long, was successfully pierced several months ago, and work is being vigorously carried on at another tunnel, 6,000 feet long, as well as on the earthworks up to Kuichow, about 100 miles. The work is progressing even more rapidly than was expected.

CASEY BEGINS TO CUT DOWN HIS PLAYERS

THREATS DROVE JACK ONSLOW TO USE ARMOR AFTER THE SECOND

Blocked Murray and the Whole Grand Rapids Team Started Out to Get Him But Were Kept Away from the Plate.

Jack Omslow was driven to the use of his armor after the third inning at the ball yard in the Thursday tilt for the reason that the whole Grand Rapids team had threatened to "get him" because he blocked Sandy Murray of the plate and prevented the worthy second sacker from scoring a run.

Wednesday Omslow got his knees in Wickland's vanguard department at the close of an exciting triple play and rode the little speedster into the plate. Casey's bustling backstopper didn't mean to damage the visiting pitcher and thought when he went to the bench that only his retirement had been damaged and that the statute that says a man must have always in public enough clothes on to make a seemly showing.

Members of the Grand Rapids team concluded that Omslow was pulling a little rough stuff and they set about ripping into his nether limbs with their spikes and close observers might have noticed that after his run in with Murray he worked the remainder of the game with his shin guards on.

Barring the time that Gray was nipped at the plate in the second the catcher had no cause for alarm because the whole team gave Bradley Valliere such noble support that there was nothing doing around the rubber and not a Grand counted while the home guard was accumulating seven runs.

Overworked Bill Goldrick was sent to do the 'finishing' and for a man who has pitched as often as William has the showing was noble. He was hit only ten times, but extra-base bingles at timely periods in the contest beat him.

Valliere was hit ten times, too, but all the hits were singles and were so scattered through the nine innings that they were unproductive. Then it must be remembered that the local hurler had support that was without flaw and the Fort Wayne club played the kind of ball it is capable of playing.

Blount got the first run on his pass, Justice's out, Keener's beaten punt and Young's infield drive at Sandy Murray, who had no chance to get the local speed merchant at home and tossed Cy out at first. Justice was passed in the second and advanced when Keener went down on a hot grounder to Kihm and then Delmer Devaine got one where he likes 'em and poked it into Clinton street.

Justice counted again in the fifth when Steve Ragan booted his grounder. Keener sent him to second with a punt and after he had taken another base on Young's out, Big Bill Clancy sent him in with a single to right. J. M. Pleasant Omslow grabbed a run in the sixth when he routed a drive ball, which was followed by Valliere's second single of the matinee.

Young hit for two bases in the seventh and scored on a fluke double by Casey. The ball barely topped Jack Peendry at third and didn't go twenty feet back of the base, but it was an awkward one to field and it netted an extra base. When Dolly Gray muffed Vandagriff's fly the boss scored, although the play was close at the plate and a dandy hook slide is all that saved the tally.

Notes of the Game. Roy Keener aided in the calmsmiling by two dandy throws from left, when he cut down Gray and Murray at the plate. Both were thrown out on clean singles.

Steve Ragan stabbed a drive from Vandagriff in the sixth and robbed him of a hit. It was a neat bit of fielding.

Holt pitched the last inning. Goldrick was bent working hard, the game was lost and there was no use to keep him in so he went to left. Holt struck one man out, passed another and managed to get through without allowing a hit.

Young's ankle must be greatly improved. When he hit for two bags in the seventh he ran the bases as fast as he ever ran in his life.

Two men tried to steal on Omslow and he beat both of them easily. It is said that while he knows he is throwing in good shape that he is able to catch the runners only because he has two good men working around second.

Bill Clancy don't make much noise, but in a quiet sort of way he is helping the club along in great shape.

Eddie Justice ran the bases in good shape. He scored two out of the four times he got on.

Murray had to retire and Jay Parker, the handy man of the visitors, went to second, where he got the only chance that came his way.

MEN OFFERED TO GRAND RAPIDS

CHARLEY ALBERTS.

STOGIES HALTED IN THEIR MARCH

Victory Would Have Put Wheeling Nearly Into First Division.

ESSICK BEAT DAYTON

Frederick Cyclone Alberts halted the rustling Stogies in their march to a berth in the second division, but it took him an even dozen swings to do it, and instead of being right on the heels of the champs Montgomery and his band are several points removed.

"Vinegar" Bill Essick stopped the Dayton club in the opening number of a bargain attraction and humbled the mighty hitters of Punch Knoll's pennant chasers with only a couple of hits, one of which went to Elmer Benson and the other to South Bend.

In the meantime, Wheeling was off to a good start at Terre Haute and led the Totals to the eighth inning when Wheeler's knock-out sent a run out in the twelfth. Alberts was taken out to let Mahoney bat for him in a pinch and Essick finished the game, winning it.

Ed Asher didn't succeed in holding South Bend and was beaten in the first game of the double-header. He allowed eleven hits and they counted for five runs against him. Frank Winchell had better luck in the second game and won it. Ed Smith pitched him and was hit sixteen times.

Bill Hillinger featured the game at Evansville with his hitting. He was at bat five times and retired with three singles and two doubles to his credit. Evansville had a good lead, but fell down and lost out in the latter part of the game.

The scores: R.H.E. Terre Haute 10 11 0 0 1 2 1 5 6 2 3. Wheeling 2 11 0 0 0 1 0 1 0 5 8 2. Batteries—Alberts, Besley, and Hargrave; Kronan, Dock and Welcher.

TWO OFFERED TO THE SPATZ TEAM

Charlie Alberts and Herman Werder Placed on Market by Casey.

TOO MANY ON HAND

Charlie Alberts has been offered to the Grand Rapids team and permission has been asked by Manager Casey of Comie Mack to buy Herman Werder over to the Spatz club. No answer had been received today, but it is probable the men will be taken as both are good pitchers.

Manager Casey said today that he had a number of places that he could place Alberts in other leagues, but regarded him as too good a nut to be allowed to get out of the Central. He also said that he thought Alberts would like to be placed in his old home town and this governed in taking him first to the new owner of the franchise.

Alberts has never pitched as good ball in Fort Wayne as he has in other towns. He is one of the most dependable men the club has on the road and has won the majority of his games here this season, but Fort Wayne has been a sort of a dead town to him, and for that reason only, it was decided to sell him.

He had trouble with Jack Hendricks in his first season in Fort Wayne and although he signed up willingly the next year he was never very well satisfied and it gave him a bad start and he has not been pitching up to his standard in all the years he has been in Fort Wayne.

His greatest accomplishment during his stay here was when he let the St. Louis Cardinals down with six hits and beat them, although Manager McCloskey was putting the air and saying what he would do to his athletes if they let a class B club beat them.

Alberts is married and has a nice little family and takes excellent care of himself. Captain Jack Peendry wants him to join the Grand Rapids team. He regards him as one of the best pitchers in the league and he is very anxious to see the deal go through.

With Spatz back of the club and a fresh start Alberts will still sell Grand Rapids and Herman Werder also has plenty to entice him to a berth in the Central league. He has not had as much experience as the other men on the staff and he is being let go for that reason.

He is still the property of the Philadelphia Americans and the consent of the manager is necessary before he can be transferred. Claude H. Varnell signed and sent in another pitcher last night in the person of Mr. Dimpfel, first name unknown. He is a collegian and came from the University of Maryland and is a right hander and is known of him. When Alberts is disposed of the staff will consist of Casey, Valliere, Hardee, Pfeiffer, Whitaker and the new man.

As long as they are going all right I will keep these men," said Manager Casey, "but they must show me that they are what I want or I will get some others."

Rain today promised to shelve the pastime scheduled for this afternoon and there will be no double-header in the event of a postponement until the next time the Grand Rapids club gets here, as South Bend is due tomorrow.

George Hill is playing at second base for the Chattanooga club. In forty-one games Knisely, of Wheeling, made thirty-five extra-base hits. Larry L. Lusk, of the Evansville outfield, is back again and has taken Byrne's place.

Walter Miller, former Fort Wayne pitcher, is back to pitch in the Evansville club in the Southern league this season. Claude Ritchey broke an arm in the service of the national commission. He will take his case to the national commission.

Ed Smith says he tried to get Mickey McDonald back to Pittsburgh to take Speed Kelly's place, but seven big league clubs refused to waive on him.

Members of the Chicago Nationals think that with his hitting and his arm, Cliff Curtis' real worth will be shown. He has had the misfortune in his big league career to be with losers.

Jim McAlister has returned to the Evansville club. He is a right hander and is known of him. When Alberts is disposed of the staff will consist of Casey, Valliere, Hardee, Pfeiffer, Whitaker and the new man.

As long as they are going all right I will keep these men," said Manager Casey, "but they must show me that they are what I want or I will get some others."

Rain today promised to shelve the pastime scheduled for this afternoon and there will be no double-header in the event of a postponement until the next time the Grand Rapids club gets here, as South Bend is due tomorrow.

George Hill is playing at second base for the Chattanooga club. In forty-one games Knisely, of Wheeling, made thirty-five extra-base hits. Larry L. Lusk, of the Evansville outfield, is back again and has taken Byrne's place.

Walter Miller, former Fort Wayne pitcher, is back to pitch in the Evansville club in the Southern league this season. Claude Ritchey broke an arm in the service of the national commission. He will take his case to the national commission.

SPATZ PAYS AND MAKES PROMISES

Park Has Been Secured and Players Will Be Bought for Club.

RETURNS TO DAYTON

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 16.—"I first plan to give Grand Rapids a baseball team of which the city may be proud and after that the downtown park will come. The season is now pretty well along and if a new park was started now and the work rushed it would take at least two months to make it really fit to be played on, which would bring the season's end only about a month away. Our first move will be to strengthen the team and put it up in the race, then if the fans show by their attendance the proper appreciation of the work and in readiness for the opening of the 1912 season as well as a good team."

These are the sentiments expressed by John Spatz of Dayton, the newly named owner of the Parker-Spatz partnership which now controls the Grand Rapids Central league team, with Parker the director of play.

He has gone back to Dayton to shape matters so he can return here. Spatz is a level-headed business man and the impressive kind, the sort of a looking fellow to inspire confidence at first sight and retain it by sane business methods. He calmly considered all the circumstances here and reached the above conclusions after a conference with Resort Manager De Lemarier, of the Grand Rapids Railway company at which the park officials were amicably settled and the use of the resort park insured for the season regardless of whatever other ground may be contracted for.

De Lemarier remained over, having a number of business matters connected with the team still to be settled before getting down to the grind as playing manager. He announces that he and his new partner are now the only men interested financially in the Grand Rapids team and that the shadow of South Bend will not again cross the club's path in the way of dictation or otherwise—meaning Red Annis.

Two pitchers of known class are also promised to make the team a winner. His releases purchased from higher class leagues than the Central. Chances of Harry Marth being returned to the Grand Rapids club instead of forced to play with the Terre Haute team against his wishes bid fair to be fulfilled. Harry's appeals to President Dreyfuss, of the Pittsburgh club, are said to have moved him to the shedding of great, salty tears in the driest town in the world on Sunday.

ENEMY COMES TO PLAY FOUR DAYS

South Bend Next Attraction at the Varnell Ball Yard.

A FEW NEW "PHIZES"

Fort Wayne's arch enemy in baseball will be here tomorrow for a matinee at the Varnell campus under the direction of Ed Smith, and fandum will be out to meet him and his encephals.

Edward and his Brouches are third place aspirants and his best chance to get the place is to trim Fort Wayne. He has served long enough in South Bend to have become inoculated with real hate against the best town in the Central league, and he will fight his very best during his sojourn in our thriving metropolis.

Edward is not carrying many new people in his troupe, but he has a mighty likely looking bunch, and he is playing some pretty nifty baseball in spite of the fact that it is only able to hold his own at the bottom of the first division.

Among the new faces that will be introduced in the sketch are those of Vinegar Bill Essick, late American association hurler, and Ray Scunlon, a catcher purchased from Jack Hendricks at Denver.

Then there is Phil Geier, who is certainly playing great ball for the champs and hitting right up among the leaders. Along with these new ones are some cherished old friends. On the pitching staff are Dave Martin, John Henry Meyers, Patrick Henry Lindsay and Edward Smith, who is guiding the destinies of the club as a side line.

Duck Kellie is catching the best baseball of his career, according to reports from Dayton, and working every day in good style, so that his understudy has little to do.

Speed Kelly, sold out of the league a few years back in midseason, is at short; Don Schrick, remodeled by Eddie Wheeler and made a first baseman, Ben Koehler, Buzz Wetzel, Today Kroy and Lefty Core make up the remainder of the team.

REDS KEEP THE GAME. President Lynch Refuses to Allow Pittsburgh's Protest.

New York, June 16.—President Lynch, of the National Baseball League, announced today that he had disallowed the protest of the Pittsburgh club against the Pittsburgh-Cincinnati game on May 27 which was won by Cincinnati by a score of 1 to 0. President Lynch says that Umpire-in-Chief Klem substantiates Umpire Doyle's statement that Hunter, of Pittsburgh, was touched out sliding into the bag and therefore, under the rules, there can be no appeal, as the decision was left to the umpire's judgment only.

Pittsburgh, it appears from President Lynch's decision, protested the game on the ground that Hunter was safe and that Umpire Doyle later in the game remarked that he would have called Hunter out had he been standing on the bag.

FRAIL CRAFT STARTS LONG OCEAN VOYAGE.

THE AUXILIARY YAWL, SEA BIRD

Providence, R. I., June 16.—A regatta crowd saw the yawl Sea Bird started at two o'clock on June 10 on the long ocean voyage to Rome, with a crew consisting of her owner, Thomas Fleming Day, at the tiller, and two Providence amateur yachtsmen, Mr. Frederic B. Thurber and Mr. Theodore R. Goodwin, on the sheets. Quite a flotilla accompanied the daring voyagers down the bay.

The Sea Bird has been thoroughly equipped for the trip during the last month, with supplies enough to last three months, though it is hoped that she may reach her destination in forty days.

Her overall length is 25 feet 6 inches, extreme width, 8 feet 4 inches; extreme draught 3 feet 8 inches; area of working sails, 400 square feet, and area of square sail, 120 square feet.

"You've never seen a really crowded hotel," remarked the night clerk at the Colonial, "until you've been in a small town during a big lodge encampment or some other unusual event that taxes the town's hotel accommodations clear beyond their limit. It's so infrequent a small town has occasion to take care of a big crowd that they are completely overwhelmed, and it is a serious problem to house the overflow. I was working at a little hotel in a Central Ohio town a few years ago when the Masons or the Knights of Pythias or some other order held a big meeting there. We were putting people away five or six in every room, but even then there were people clamoring for cots or some place to lay their heads.

"The day when the rush was at its height we got permission to put up a limited number of guests in a big Methodist church right diagonally across the street from the hotel. The pews were cushioned, and as there were plenty of big windows that could be opened for ventilation, it wasn't a half-bad place to sleep. A couple of drummers, regular customers, dropped along that night and were among the first to be assigned to the church. That night a little after midnight the whole town was awakened by the violent ringing of the bell in that Methodist church. There was no one around to send over, and I left the desk long enough to chase across and see what was up. One of the two drummers stood at the front door in his pajamas.

He had met some friends among the visiting lodge brothers that evening, and his eyes showed the effects.

"What a thunder are you ringing that bell for? I demanded, considerably irritated, for I knew everybody would blame the hotel for the racket.

"I just rang for a bellboy," replied the guest calmly. "Send over a couple of gin rickies to pew 17."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

TO MEND A TEAR IN A GLOVE.

Gloves are very apt to tear around the thumb, and the annoying part of it is that the more you try to mend the tear the worse it becomes. In France they mend them in this way: They take a very fine needle—indeed, the finest that can be induced to take the silk thread—and buttonhole the raw edges all around, doing this very closely and taking as little as possible of the kid, but nevertheless sufficient to give the stitches a firm hold. When this has been done commence the buttonholing again, taking up the stitches in the first row. Continue round and round in the same way, and gradually the hole will begin to fill. As you near the center it is wise to put a few more rows of stitching, as this relieves the tension caused by the original tear. It may then be fastened off, and if the silk with which the mending is done is a good match it will be almost impossible to tell the difference.—Philadelphia North American.

DIABETES

From late figures the hope of recovery under the new emollient treatment seems to be about as follows:

In people of sixty and over results are quite uniform, probably nine-tenths recovering. While at fifty and over a large majority of all cases yield to the treatment, below fifty and approaching forty the disease gets more stubborn, and between thirty and forty the percentage is not high—probably not much over half yielding.

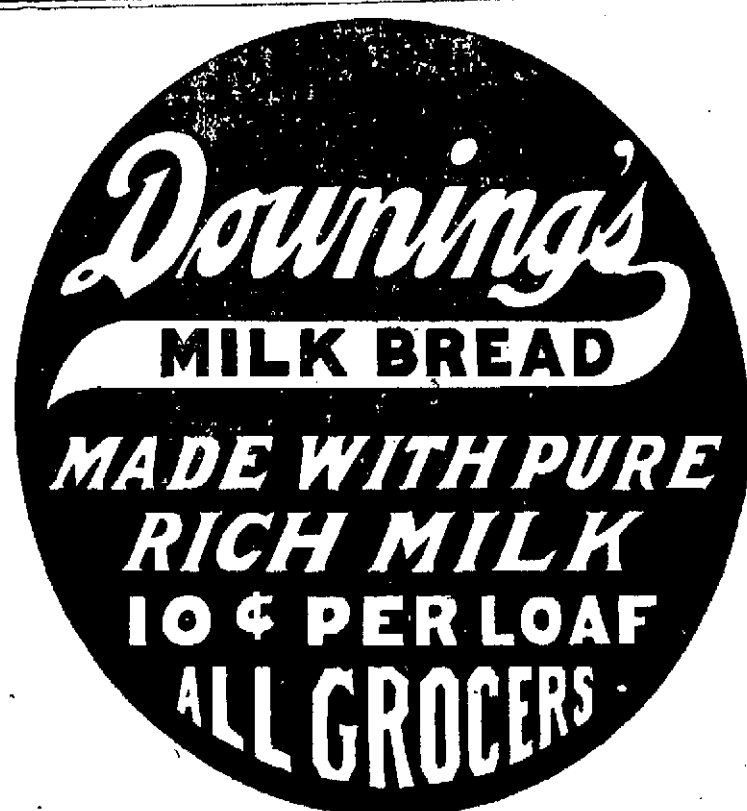

Under thirty the percentage is less and in children recoveries have been very few and most of those were obtained with the aid of skilled physicians forcing nutrition, with alkaline treatment to prevent formation of acetone.

The new emollient treatment is known as Fulton's Diabetic Compound. It can be had in Fort Wayne at the D. & N. Pharmacy, 624 Calhoun St.

We desire every patient to write us who is not noting the usual improvement by the third week. Always state age, literature mailed free. Jno. J. Fulton Co., 643 Battery St., San Francisco, Cal. We invite correspondence with physicians who have obstinate cases.

S.S.S. FOR SCROFULA NATURE'S PERFECT CURE

Swollen glands about the neck, weak eyes, running sores and abscesses, pale, waxy complexions and frail, poorly developed systems, are the most usual ways in which Scrofula is manifested. In some cases the blood is so filled with the scrofulous germs that from birth the disease shows its presence. In other cases it is held in check during young, vigorous life, but when the system begins to weaken, especially after a spell of sickness, the disease will often manifest itself in some form. S.S.S. is Nature's perfect cure for Scrofula, made entirely of healthful roots, herbs and barks, a perfectly safe medicine for young or old. S.S.S. goes into the circulation, and drives out all scrofulous matter, and supplies the blood with the healthful qualities it is in need of. In this way it builds up weak, delicate persons and makes them strong and healthy. Book on the Blood and medical advice free. S.S.S. is for sale at drug stores. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

THREE VETERANS IN SERVICE

S. S. Kelker, David Raidy and J. Powell Marked for Retirement.

COMBINED SERVICE OVER 140 YEARS

Electric Employees Announce Great Program
for Outing.

Three men whose combined service in the employ of the Pennsylvania is about 140 years were practically placed upon the retired list yesterday. They are Engineer Samuel Kelker and En-months of being seventy years old, the age when retirement from active service with the Pennsylvania company is compulsory. With the exception of a period of four years, when he was in the army, he was on the Pennsylvania pay rolls fifty-three years. He became a fireman on the road August 5, 1858, and worked steadily in that capacity until summoned to the rescue of his country. Immediately after the war he returned to the road as a fireman and August 5, 1865, was promoted to engineer. For several years he had a freight run, but the greater portion of his service has been at the throttle of a passenger engine. April 15, 1861,

Mr. Kelker responded to President Lincoln's call for men to serve three months. On that day he enlisted in Company E, Ninth regiment, and three months later, on July 29, when his enlistment term expired, he re-enlisted for three years and served throughout the entire war. He was in a number of battles and had some exciting experiences, notably the capture of one of the first rebel flags taken by the union soldiers. This incident was mentioned by the Sentinel last April.

David Raidy became water boy for the men on the work train in the fall of 1855. His father came here from County Kerry, Ireland, where David was born, and took employment as a gineer David Raidy, of this city, and Joseph Powell, a crossing watchman at Van Wert. Each is very near the age of compulsory retirement and being disabled—Engineer Kelker by injuries and Engineer Raidy and Mr. Powell by falling health—they asked to be put upon the pension list under the disability clause and arrangements looking in that direction are being made.

The examining board, which consisted of Dr. J. H. Talbot, of Indianapolis;
Dr. W. Weston, of Columbus, and Dr.
A. Hadley, of Terre Haute, examined and passed upon Engineers Kelker and Raidy here yesterday morning and later went to Van Wert and examined
Mr. Powell. Dr. E. F. Wagner, the local division medical examiner, accompanied the board to Van Wert.

Samuel S. Kelker lacks several section hand on the road a short time before his son became an employee.

David became a fireman on the road
when he was nineteen years old and has been an engineer for about forty-four years, much of that time in the passenger service. Until the past year or two, he had remarkable health and he points with pride to the fact that during his fifty-six years' service,
he never failed to get to the pay car.
Mr. Raidy was born in December, 1841, and lacks only a few months of being at the compulsory retirement period.
Being unable to work he considered it advisable to be retired now.

Joseph Powell was born May 23, 1842, and was sixty-nine years old last month. He commenced work for the company in the capacity of a section hand in April, 1850, thirty-one years ago, and October 1, 1859, was transferred to the police department and assigned to street crossing duties at Van Wert, where he has been steadily employed.

EXCURSION COMMITTEES

Electricians Preparing for Annual Outing.

The men who have charge of matters connected with the annual excusion of the employees of the Fort Wayne Electric works met last night and appointed the sub-committees and made other arrangements for the big event.

The general committee is composed as follows: E. G. Fleming, chairman;
R. O. O'Neil, secretary-treasurer; J. J.
Bauer, E. K. Allen, George Kress, Charles Hecker, Eugene McLaughlin,
Eugene Potter, George Harkender,
Harry Bais, Fred Fleming and R. O.
O'Neil.

Transportation—E. K. Allen, first train; J. J. Bauer, second train; R. O.
O'Neil, third train; E. G. Fleming, fourth train.

Ticket—George Harkender, Harry Bais, Miss Edith Thieme and Miss Charlie Hanz.

Dance—Harry Brink, George Bais,
Miss Lydia Bartels and Miss Rose Schurhoffer.

Badges—Eugene Potter and George Kress.

A partial list of the entertaining
features of the day were announced at the meeting last night. They include a two hours' ride on the big fourth-decked steamer "Eastland," with dancing on the lower deck and a concert by the Electro-Technic band on the upper deck and dancing during the entire day in the main dance hall

at Cedar Point, which will be held exclusively for the use of the excursionists on that day. It was also announced that the trains will leave the resort for the return trip at 6:30, 7:30, 9:00 and 11:00 p. m., giving those who wish it an opportunity to remain and enjoy the evening at the park.

The closing meeting of the Fort Wayne section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers was held at the Commercial club rooms last night. The program included the election of officers and a banquet and the stamp of approval was placed upon the administration of E. A. Wagner when he was unanimously re-elected chairman. Thomas W. Beehan was re-elected vice chairman and J.

Vincent Hunter re-elected secretary.
E. A. Banes, H. L. Browning and M.
J. Kehoe were placed on the board of directors. This organization is for educational purposes in the electrical world and it has done a great deal of good in this city.

WILL EDUCATE ITS EMPLOYEES.

The Illinois Central has established a new educational bureau for the benefit of its employees and has announced that the department is now ready to give the following course of instructions: Black signal, interlocking signal, elementary electrical railroad operation, railway mechanical engineering, gas engines and motor car operation, mechanical drawing machine design, sheet metal pattern drafting, pipe fitting, practical track work, locomotive running, air brakes, shop practice, tool dressing, plumbing, surveying and mapping and mathematics.
Other courses which will be ready by the end of the year are electric light and power, telegraphy, telephony, station work, railroad accounting, freight traffic, passenger traffic, boiler construction, analysis of statistics, refrigeration, railway civil engineering.

concrete work, car construction and repairs.

The work of the educational department will be carried on largely by correspondence, and lectures given by prominent railway officials. Special text books are prepared for the use of students and written examinations are held. The plan was initiated following a recognition of the fact that the personnel of the railway service is largely composed of those who have not had an opportunity for higher schooling or technical training, and that the rapid development of the railway industry requires just such training to fit its employees for advancement.

All expenses of the bureau, including instructors and text books, will be defrayed by the railroad, and all employees of the system are eligible.

There are no very great changes in the time of arrival of trains in this city, but the speed of the trains out on the line has been adjusted between stations so as to make it possible for them to maintain the schedule with more regularity than has been the case under the present schedule. All trains will arrive in Detroit and Toledo as they are scheduled under the old time card.

EAT HIS CORN CROP.

When H. A. Philley, chief clerk at the Pennsylvania road foreman's office, stepped to his back door this morning he was startled to see eleven cows in his little "truck" patch. The behave were just completing the destruction of the ten or twelve rows of very promising sweet corn which extended across the field, but did not disturb the peas, cabbage, radishes and potatoes which occupied other portions of the little farm. Mr. Philley recently erected and moved into a house upon a few acres out near the Philley homestead and he took great pleasure and pride in his growing crops.

STUDENTS HAVE SPECIAL CAR.

The 1910-1911 term of the St. Louis Concordia seminary has closed and the students are homeward bound. About fifty of them came up here on Wabash train No. 28 this morning, having a special car. All got off the train here, some to take trains on other roads for their homes and others to visit Concordia college and old friends a day or two before going to their homes.
The coming of these students made some extra work for the Wabash baggage force as each had a big trunk.
The baggage was divided between two trains, however, thirty of the pieces coming in on No. 2 at 5 o'clock this morning.

MUST TAKE MUTILATED COIN.

Because one of its conductors refused to take a mutilated coin and put the passenger off the car, the Cincinnati Northern Traction company has been compelled to pay Howard F.

Rosenagle, of Franklin, O., $287.50. The case had been in the court a long while and the final decision was rendered by the supreme court of Ohio. The court held that as long as the coin was originally good, although being bent, cracked and mutilated when presented to the conductor as fare, it was still a legal tender in Ohio. Rosenagle was only ten years old when the incident occurred.

FELL FROM A HIGH BRIDGE.

W. H. Dils, a carpenter whose home is in Defiance, Ohio, and who has worked for the Wabash only two weeks, is in the company's hospital at Peru, suffering from injuries sustained in a fall from the bridge which spans Helm creek, just west of Wabash. He fell thirty-five feet and was picked up unconscious by his fellow workmen and hurried to the hospital,
where it developed that he had a broken ankle, bad bruises about the body and head and possibly internal injuries. His escape from death is considered remarkable.

CELEBRATING DOUBLE EVENT.

The following item handed a Sentinel reporter this morning concerns a man well known in shop and other circles in the city: "H. Hartman is passing the sixty-first milestone on life's pathway today and also the forty-third anniversary of the day he took employment with the Pennsylvania company. He celebrated both events by working as usual in the blacksmith shop at the big hammer in James Trythall's gang. Good luck, Henry; hope you will be with us many more years." Mr. Hartman is very popular with his shopmates.

SPECIAL Y. M. C. A. MEETING

There will be a special meeting of the board of managers of the Y. M. C.
A. at the headquarters on Calhoun and Holman streets at 3:45 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Immediately following the afternoon religious services.
The object of the meeting is to discuss the question of a successor to Secretary J. W. Burns, who has tendered his resignation. It is understood that there will be one or more applications considered at the meeting, Sunday afternoon.

HELD ENGINEER RESPONSIBLE.

Engineer A. C. Coombs, who had charge of the first engine of a doubleheader train which crashed into a passenger train at Columbus, Ind., a few nights ago, severely injuring a number of persons, has been held responsible for the accident because he did not obey orders and because his engine controlled the air on the train. He was given a month's lay off. Nine persons were hurt and much property destroyed in the collision.

GETTING READY FOR OUTING.

J. H. Hebrack and J. A. Graham, of the Pennsylvania, are in Logansport today to confer with Supt. Frank H.
Worthington, of the Vandalia, relative to train and other service on that line on the occasion of the annual outing
at Maxinkuckee of the Pennsylvania employees. Maxinkuckee is located on the Vandalia, about fifteen miles south of Plymouth, where the four trains will be transferred from the main line to the Vandalia.

FREIGHT HANDLER HURT.

Paul Golumbeck, a freight handler in the night gang at the Lake Shore warehouse, was taken to his home at 35 East Jefferson street at 11 o'clock last night, suffering severely from injuries sustained when he was struck in the side by the handles of a truck
he was pushing. Dr. Dinnen attended him and says the man will be unable to work for some days, though his injuries are not considered serious.

GRANDMOTHER DEAD IN OHIO

A telegram this morning brought to
M. W. DeWitt, a Pennsylvania fireman, the information that his grandmother had dropped dead at Dunkirk, Ohio, this morning. She was very old, but had been in fairly good health, and the news was a severe shock to M.
DeWitt. He left this afternoon for that city.

WOODMEN GOING EAST.

The Oklahoma, the Lawton and the Elreno delegations to the annual convention of the Modern Woodmen of America at Buffalo next week will pass through Fort Wayne on a special train over the Wabash some time this evening. The train will be made up of a Pullman car, three tourist cars,
a coach and a baggage car.

ITS FIRST TRIP TONIGHT.

The "Pond Lily" will make its first trip to Rome City this summer this evening, when it will leave the Pen-sylvania station at 5 o'clock. It will return tomorrow morning, leaving Rome City at 7 o'clock and arriving here at 8.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

The Wabash paymaster will be in Fort Wayne next Tuesday.
Division Storekeeper H. W. Hurst, of the Wabash, is in Toledo on business for the company today.

J. C. Brake, stenographer at the Pennsylvania road foreman's office, resumed work this morning. He was taken sick last Tuesday.

Jacob Braun, of the shop carpenter department of the Pennsylvania, had a foot hurt yesterday when a wheel-barrow fell on it.

Machinist H. Regel, of the Bass shops, went to Haudensville, Ohio, this morning to do some work on a steam plant.

Col. R. G. Thompson, who is to retire from the position of district passenger agent of the Wabash July 1, left for Indianapolis this morning. Mrs.
Thompson, who had been here several days, went to that city yesterday.

Chief Clerk W. L. Witt has returned to his duties in the Pennsylvania philadelphia power office. He went to Philadelphia Monday and later ran down to Atlantic City, where the Master Car Builders and the Master Mechanics associations are holding their annual convention.

Thirteen hundred people made up
the annual excursion to Maxinkuckee of the Panhandle employes last Tuesday. It was the sixth annual excusion and it passed off without a single accident. Each of the other excusions was attended by mishaps in which one or more of the excursionists were injured. Most of the excusionists were from the shops in Logansport and the members of their families.

Pierceton Record: "Tom Smith, son of Scott Smith and wife, was united in marriage, to Miss Florence Smart, of Fort Wayne, on Tuesday evening, June 6, the ceremony being performed at his residence by Rev.
Master of the First Presbyterian church. Mr. and Mrs. Smith arrived in Pierceton Saturday evening and are spending a few days with friends here. Their home will be at 115 West Main street, Fort Wayne. Mr. Smith is in the employ of the Nickel Plate railroad. The Record extends congratulations."

New Process Gas Ranges are made in a variety of styles and sizes to meet the demand of the most exacting customer.

Made on the "Visible" principle, they consume one-third less gas than other ranges, and the distribution of the heat in the oven being instantaneous, it is not necessary to heat the oven before using. Put your baking in the cold oven and light your burner. This saves from five to ten minutes' time, saves gas and greatly facilitates baking.
The mica window in the door makes it possible to regulate the fire without stooping or opening any doors, which is necessary on other ranges. The fire is in plain sight at all times.

BRYAN HITS BACK AT THE CRITICS

Says Men Who Call Him a Dictator Knifed in Days Gone By.

COMMONER AT FOES

Lincoln, Neb., June 15.—In reply to men who have accused him of trying to be a dictator, W. J. Bryan bids defiance to democrats who are critic-ing him, and intimates they are the same men who, he says, have been treacherous in the past.

His declaration, which appears in the issue of the Commoner today, goes back to the time when he was a candidate for president, when he declares, through three campaigns, he was knifed by democrats claiming to be his friends, even committeemen being in league against him, and giving comfort to the opposition.

"Mr. Bryan has never attempted to dictate to the democratic party and has no desire to do so," says the Nebraskaan, "but as a member of the democratic party Mr. Bryan has exercised the right to express an opinion upon public questions and upon public men and this right he expects to continue to exercise.

Body Scarred by Traitors' Knives. "He will not be deterred by abuse from discharging what he regards as a sacred duty. He is accustomed to abuse. His body, politically speaking, is scarred by knives that have been wielded by the representatives of plutocracy inside of the democratic party and outside.

"He has made three campaigns and in every one of them he has had to meet treachery within the party as well as be assailed from without. He has had to conduct his campaigns through committeemen, some of whom were in league with the opposition and in secret correspondence with the enemy.

"He has had to meet false and malicious misrepresentation on the part of papers subsidized by the predatory interests. He has seen the party platform attacked, sometimes openly and sometimes in insidious, by those pretending to support the ticket, and he has seen the platform repudiated immediately after the election by papers that professed to support it during the campaign.

Rank and File of Party True.
"He has had to oppose distinguished members of his own party when those members attempted to insert woe words in the platform and make it ambiguous and uncertain. He has had to contend with timid politicians who professed friendship only out of fear of their constituents, and only so long as that pretended friendship would help them.

"But he has found the heart of the party sound. He has found the rank and file of the party true. To this multitude of democrats, uncorrupted and undified, he owes whatever strength he has. He is in favor of harmony when harmony means honest, straightforward democracy, but he is opposed to a harmony that is built upon false pretenses and used for the purpose of deception."

A WORLD NAVY PARADE.

The greatest naval pageant in the history of the world will be the most spectacular feature of the ceremonies incident to the opening of the Panama canal, says Popular Mechanics. The president has been authorized by congress to invite all foreign powers to participate in a great naval parade, which will insure not only representation of every navy in large numbers, but each country will send its largest and best ships.

The fleets will assemble in Hampton Roads and proceed up the Chesapeake bay and Potomac river to Washington, where a formal call will be made upon the president of the United States. On their return the president will review the fleets from his yacht, which will be stationed at the Virginia Capes; then this vast armada will sail southward and pass through the Panama canal as part of the official opening program. It means the least interesting part of the announcement is the continued cruise of the combined fleets to San Francisco, during the Panama Canal opening exposition. This will furnish an attraction which no international exposition has ever had, and will enable thousands of people who cannot get to the Atlantic coast, to enjoy the inspiring sight of the greatest assemblage of fighting ships ever brought together in the history of the world.

The question of improving the sugar beet has come up in France, and many growers were surprised to learn that according to recent figures France occupies only the fifth place as to the amount of sugar produced an acre of beets. It is evident that the quality needs to be improved, as Germany, Belgium, Austria and Holland are in the lead. Besides the sugar industry finds it difficult to obtain a beet supply, as the growers prefer to sell to alcohol producers, and the sugar manufacturers can not pay a high price, being limited by the present low price of sugar. Scientific American.

Gas Ranges, made for service, to be had at Foster's—"New Process" Gas Range.

Good Liver Remedy Free

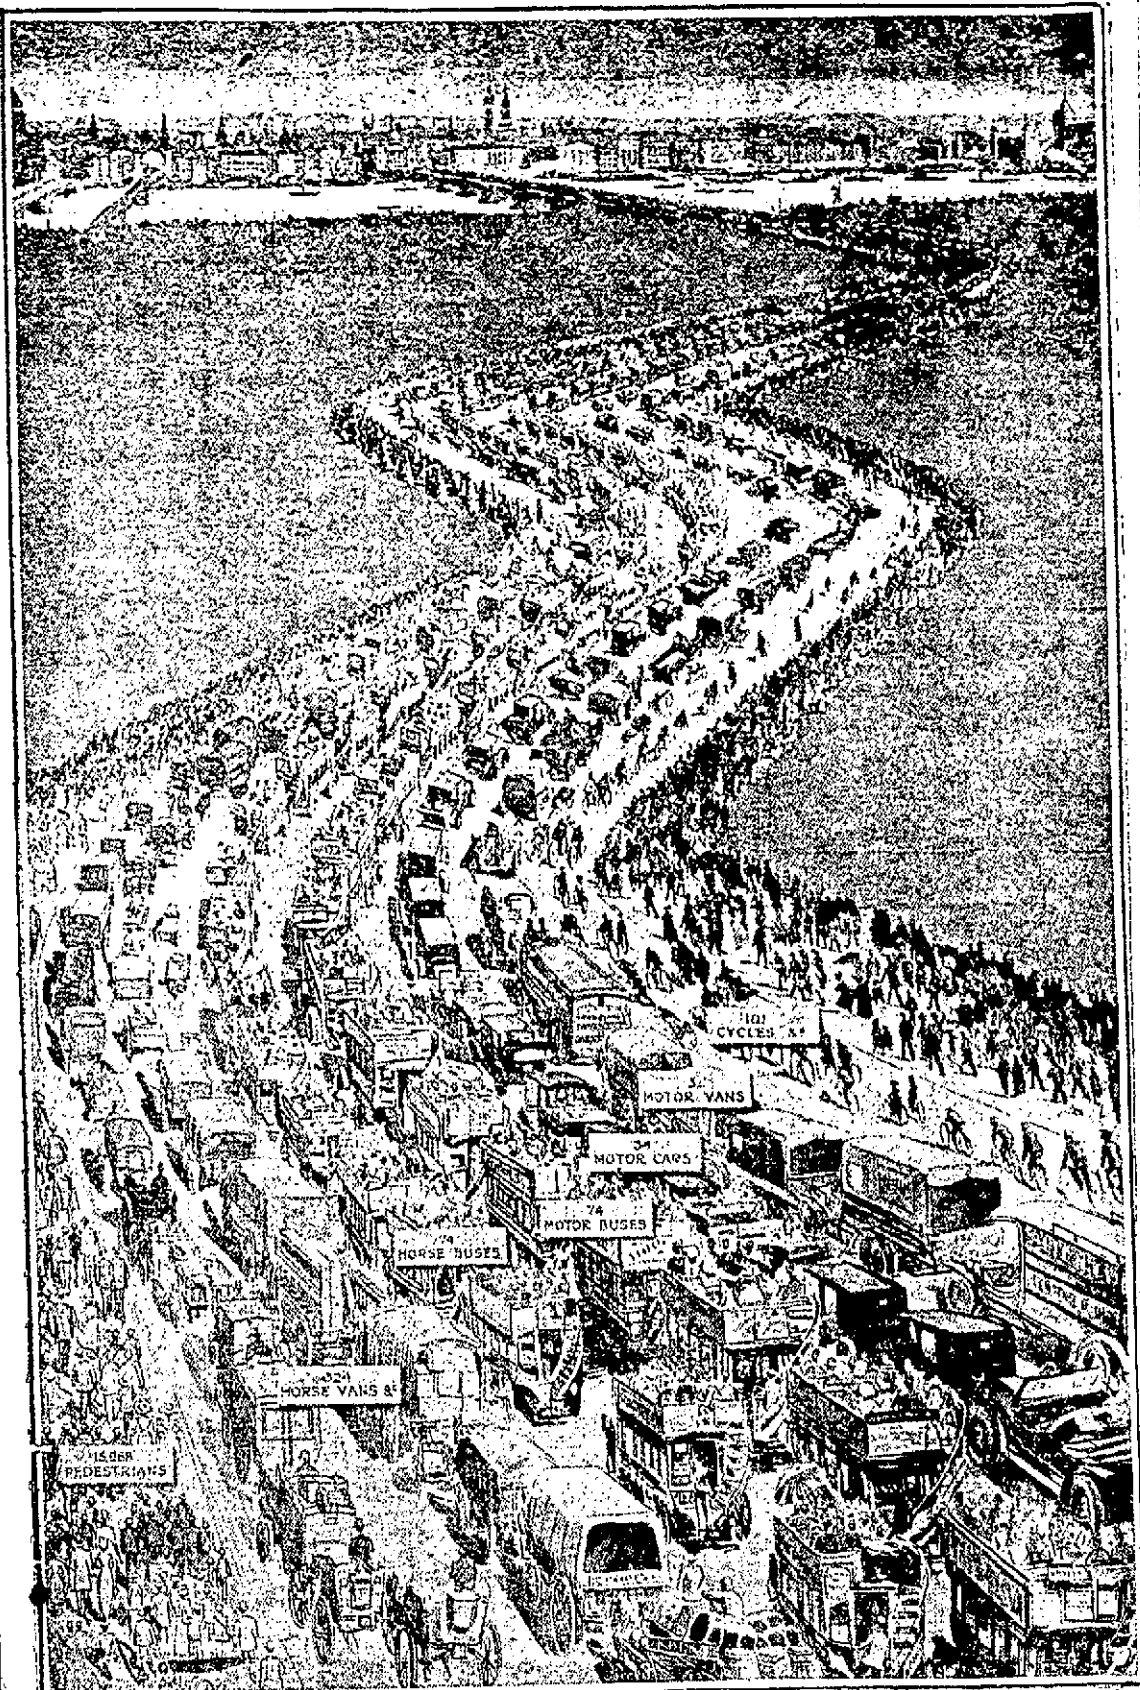

When you suffer from any form of indigestion it is always well to take something for the liver, as usually the trouble lies there. If you are bilious, have a bloaty feeling after eating, if you belch, if your skin is yellowish you may be sure it is liver trouble.

What you need is something to stir up the liver, to arouse the gastric juices so that they will aid in the digestion of your food. A very good remedy for this, and one highly recommended by those who have used it, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which you can obtain at fifty cents or one dollar a bottle. But if you have any doubt about its merits, and would prefer to try it first, send your address to Dr. Caldwell and he will promptly send you a free sample bottle.

Thousands of people first learned of this remarkable cure for stomach, liver and bowel troubles through a free sample. Mrs. Frank Lilly of Plainview, Ill., sent for one and it cured her and she is open in saying that she will never take pills or strong cathartics again, as Syrup Pepsin acts so mildly. Mr. W. L. Bryant, the Postmaster at Sardin, Tenn., says he will never be without it again. No sick person can afford to ignore a remedy so highly endorsed as this. It is good for all the family from infancy to old age, because it is mild, free from griping and yet promptly effective. Furthermore, results are absolutely guaranteed or money will be refunded.

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy ends his obligation. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over forty years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All are welcome to write him. Whether for the medical advice or the free sample, send to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 541 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

A STREAM OF TRAFFIC IN WORLD'S GREATEST CITY.

A GRAPHIC REPRESENTATION OF LONDON BRIDGE TRAFFIC.

Traffic across London bridge was counted a few days ago. The drawing is a visual impression of the crowd of vehicles which crosses between half past 8 and half past 9 o'clock in the morning. These figures also revealed the fact that London bridge still remains the chief cross-river connection, for the figures for Blackfriars amount to 4,558 pedestrians and those for the Tower bridge only 612 pedestrians.

Thus the supremacy of London bridge among all the bridges of the city, a supremacy which has been maintained ever since the first Roman wooden bridge spanned the flood of Thames, is fully supported by modern statistics.

STEAMLESS ATLANTIC LINERS.

The new Hamburg-American Atlantic liner now under construction will be 551 feet in length. Its commander's bridge will be seventy-seven feet above the water level. The company's flag will fly 205 feet above the sea. The ship will have no funnels. It will have no boilers. It will be steamless. Its propellers will be operated by explosion engines. It will be a magnificent craft, but one of the strangest that has ever crossed the ocean. The company that is investing a modern fortune in its building is one of the most conservative, if not one of the most enterprising in the world. It may be taken for granted that the project of constructing a steamless vessel was not entered upon hastily or without thorough investigation of the gas engine in its higher stage of development. It is said that until one was planned for this ship no explosion engine of proved efficiency and security and power equal to the requirements of a vessel of great tonnage was ever designed. It follows as a matter of course that, if the motor of the big Hamburg-American shall come up to expectations, all other ocean-going vessels will eventually abandon the steam engine.

It is impossible thus early to estimate the cost of operation under the new system, so far as fuel consumption is concerned, but it is known now as well as it ever can be that the saving in internal space will be immense. It will mean also great economy in labor. It will mean cleanliness. So far as the new vessel is concerned, it will not, perhaps, mean greater speed, for the breaking of existing records is not the end the company has in view. Nevertheless, there is just as much reason to look for development along speed lines in the new type of Atlantic liners as there is to look for improvement in any other direction. It is inconceivable that the first motor-propelled vessel should stand for the highest achievement of inventive genius or constructive skill in this decade.—Christian Science Monitor.

PREFERRED TO BE A QUACK.

A quack at a fair near Paris, was driving a roaring trade selling nostrums, drawing teeth and beguiling the crowd in the usual ways, says the British Medical Journal. The letter of the French law against unqualified practice is very strong, though, owing to the indifference of the magistrates it is not strictly carried out. This, however, was a particularly flagrant case, and the police felt compelled to intervene. The quack was therefore accosted by the guardians of the law, taken to a tent at the back of his stand and requested to show his diploma. To the stupefaction of the gendarmes he exhibited a perfectly authentic degree of doctor of medicine of the University of Paris. They were profuse in their apologies which the doctor cut short with an urgent entreaty that they should say nothing about what they had seen. "For," he said, "if the people know that I am a qualified doctor I shall have no more customers."

THIS WAS JOY FLYING.

A remarkable flying incident which occurred at Brooklands is described in the Aero, says the London Globe. H. J. D. Astley, when descending at some 200 feet in his Blériot was caught up by a gust and hoisted over onto his left wing tip. He switched off his engine to remove the propeller torque, and let the machine dive, so as to get her back on an even keel. Accidentally he switched on when the machine was diving and the sudden jerk of the big engine slung him out of his seat onto the fuselage. His weight shifting aft, he luckily forced the tail of the machine down and at about 100 feet from the ground she dropped her tail and shot upward for another 150 to 200 feet at an exceedingly steep angle. Astley managed to get hold of the control with one hand, so that he could work the elevator and wing warping, but could not reach the rudder lever with his feet. Although thus handicapped, he managed to bring the machine to the ground in the Sewage farm. The machine stood on its head and threw the aviator into the mud, but he was unhurt.

WHEN UNCLE SAM'S YOUNG SOLDIERS GOT THEIR SHEEPSKINS.

SECOND LIEUTENANT CURTIS H. NANCE RECEIVING HIS DIPLOMA

In the presence of Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, the secretary of war, and many persons of prominence, eighty-three young men were graduated from the Military academy at West Point.

Philip Bracken Fleming, of Nebraska, honor man of the class, was loudly applauded when he went up for his diploma.

Immediately after the exercises James Kitter, a cadet graduate from Pennsylvania, and Miss Alice Brett, of Brooklyn, were married in the chapel.

On the platform, receiving his diploma, will be seen Second Lieutenant Curtis H. Nance, of New York.

STONEWALL AND HIS MEN.
(Gamaliel Bradford, Jr., in June Atlantic).

The common soldier loved Jackson. It was not for any jolly comradeship, not for any fascinating magnetism of personal charm or heroic enthusiasm. He was a hard taskmaster, exacting and severe. "Whilst his soldiers struggled painfully toward Romney in the teeth of the winter storm, his lips were never opened save for sharp rebuke or peremptory order." But the men had confidence in him. He had got them out of many a difficulty, and something in his manner told them that he would get them out of any difficulty. The sight of his old uniform and scrawny sorrel horse stirred all their nerves and made them march and fight as they could not have done for another man. And then they knew that though he was harsh, he was just. He expected great things of them, but he would do great things for them. He would slaughter them mercilessly to win a victory; but when it was won, he would give them the glory, under God, and would cherish the survivors with a parent's tenderness. "We do not regard him as a severe disciplinarian," writes one of them, "as a politician, as a man seeking popularity—but as a Christian, a brave man who appreciates the condition of a common soldier, as a fatherly protector, as one who endures all hardship in common with his followers, who never commands others to face danger without putting himself in the van."

SICK MAN OF EUROPE STILL SUFFERING FROM OLD MALADIES.

Turkey still is the "sick man" of Europe. On every hand is evidence that the remedies applied by the young Turks have failed as a panacea for the empire's troubles, according to late dispatches from Salonica. Popular unrest—anticipation that something must happen, but ignorance as to the form that any upheaval may take—is strikingly encountered about this city, which is the real headquarters of the party of union and progress.

In many respects the situation is as bad as during the most flourishing days of Abdul Hamid II, the former sultan, who now is a rigorously guarded prisoner in the Villa Allatini, in Salonica. Throughout Syria and Turkey-in-Asia, too, there is the same evidence of unrest beneath the surface of affairs.

A PRIVATE "ZOO" IN FASHIONABLE PART OF GOTHAM.

WOLF HOUNDS IN RUSSELL HOPKINS' ZOO.

JOSEPHINE BENNETT HOPKINS

New York, June 15.—(In the right, ladies and gentlemen, you see the home of Russell F. Hopkins, consul general of Panama. Mr. Hopkins has the only private "zoo" in Fifth avenue, built at an expense of $25,000, so his children might have real toady bears and reindeer to play with. This will soon be the cry of the megaphone artists who purvey information to patrons of the sightseeing stages in New York.

The "zoo" is to be built for Mr. Hopkins' two-months-old son, John Randolph, and his daughter, Josephine Bennett. It is to be stocked from Mr. Hopkins' collection at Irvington.

WOMAN CARRIES MAIL EVERY DAY

Has Done It for Two Long Decades for People of Interlaken.

IT IS AN INSTITUTION

Boston, Mass., June 16.—With a record of having carried mail for the government for twenty-two years, during which she has covered over 62,000 miles, not to mention the feat of being the only "expressman" in the neighborhood, Miss Florence Markham has a unique distinction among New England women.

Not content with seeing that the inhabitants of Interlaken, a village east of Stockbridge, get their mail twice every day, Miss Markham carries all sorts of packages and express matter, meeting the trains at the station and delivering the matter at the farmers' houses.

Besides this, Mrs. Markham does marketing, and, being a shrewd business woman, many of the farmers' wives intrust their buying to her, feeling secure that she will get them the very best at rock-bottom prices.

Erect, breezy, bright, with intelligence sticking out all over her and good nature beaming from her round face, Miss Markham in the living demonstration of her creed of "outdoors, always outdoors." She considers the outdoor life the cure-all for ills of every description, and advises women who are listless and careless to occupy themselves with some outdoor work.

Has Never Missed a Trip. No better proof exists of the advantages of outdoor living in her own case than the fact that in these twenty-two years in which she has carried the mails for Uncle Sam she has not missed a single trip, making two each day.

"When I began to carry mail," said Miss Markham, as she halted her horse long enough to have the Stockbridge mail thrown aboard, "I received $9 per month. In those days the government made a contract with a man for mail delivery in certain districts. This man bought up the 'delivery rights' by the wholesale, setting them cheap. Then he would hire individuals to carry the mail, always at a handsome profit to himself.

"But Uncle Sam has done away with that since, and I now have a contract with Washington direct. Also, I now receive $25 each month, which is a little better than $9.

"But I don't reckon up the job in money value alone. I feel sure that this out-of-door work has kept me in good health, and has saved me many a doctor's bill. I am never sick—do I look it?"—and she certainly did not look as though she had ever known as much as a toothache.

"Everybody helps me here. The boys help me with the heavy packages, at the trains they throw my mail in for me, and everybody seems to appreciate me. That makes things pleasant.

"I have one horse which I have driven sixteen years. The other I haven't had so long. I never sell a horse—I don't believe in it. I think it is a crime to sell a horse that has served you faithfully, for you never know to what misery it will come.

"I have had four horses, and all of them have died in my stable—that is, I have had them killed when they got too old. I do not belong to the S. P. C. A., but I have saved many an animal from pain and suffering. That is my hobby—I have such a love for animals that the least indignity or cruelty 'gets me going' and I just have to stop where I am and set matters right.

"I have always loved horses and been with them, and I wouldn't be without them for worlds. These good animals that have carried me out in all kinds of weather are dearer to me than I can tell. Storms? I've been through some of the worst storms in this section of the country, and a storm here in the heart of the Berkshires is nothing to be despised, I can tell you.

"I have built up quite a little express business of my own here. You see, we haven't any regular express here. Of course, I draw the line on pianos and folding beds, but I'll take anything short of them. I make it a point to meet the trains and get the packages intended for my customers, and then I deliver them. It is not only good fun, but I make my living at it, and that's all I care about.

"I have no intention of giving up my work—not for years yet. I'm only—well, I'm young enough to go on for some time. I don't know what they'd do around here without me, as I'm a sort of an institution."

Miss Markham doesn't look a day older than thirty, although her real age has been said to be thirty-five. Miss Markham says she doesn't care if they say she is 135.

The woman of today who has good health, good temper, good sense, bright eyes and a lovely complexion, the result of correct living and good digestion, wins the admiration of the world. If your digestion is faulty Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets will correct it. For sale by all dealers.

It was at Balliol college, Oxford, that coffee was first drunk in England, and there not by an Englishman, but by an embryo Greek bishop. John Evelyn writes in his diary: "There came in my time to the college one Nathaniel Conopios out of Greece, who, returning many years after, was made bishop of Smyrna. He was the first I ever saw drink coffee, which custom came not into England till thirty years after." Evelyn apparently considered the coming of coffee to have been the most important episode of his undergraduate days next to the quarrels between his tutor and the cantankerous master. —London Chronicle.

Concerning the great turtles of the Southwest Indian ocean, a traveler says: "The chelonian, or green turtle (chelone mydas) is an animal of considerable economic importance to the atoll, for it still occurs in the vast herds which are so often described by early voyagers in the tropics. There appear to be two distinct groups—one resident and small in numbers, the other migratory and visiting the atoll to breed in numbers impossible to estimate."

HAIR WHITE AS SNOW

Restored to Natural Color with One Bottle of

WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY

The Only True Hair Restorer, Tonic and Rejuvenator

ALMOST A MIRACLE

My hair was as white as snow when I commenced using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. One bottle restored my hair to its natural dark brown color. As I am now 70 years old, I consider the result most remarkable. It is an agreeable and refreshing hair dressing, keeping the hair soft and glossy, without being in the least greasy or sticky.

WM. WESTLAKE,
210 West Main Street, Rochester, N. Y.

Why hesitate when WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY is daily producing just such results?

After years of study and analysis of the hair, we have been able to produce an ideal Hair Tonic and Restorer, which contains an actual constituent of hair, combined with ingredients of recognized merit for treatment of hair and scalp diseases. It makes and keeps the scalp clean and healthy, gives life, strength and lustre to the hair, and restores faded and gray hair to natural color.

No matter how long and thick your hair is, WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY will make it longer and thicker. It will remove every trace of dandruff in a few days, stop falling in one week, and start a new growth in from one to three months.

These are facts that have been proven in scores of cases. WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY is guaranteed to do all that it is claimed to do or the price will be refunded.

WRECK OF MAINE APPEARS WORSE

Lowered Water Reveals a Condition Exceeding Expectations.

MAY CHANGE PLANS

Havana, June 16.—That the shattering of the hull of the battleship Maine, expressed by mute testimony of steel ribs bent apart, decks upheaved and hurled far from their original position, bulkheads crumpled like sheets of paper and apparently inextricable and hardly identifiable masses of construction material, is evidently far greater than supposed, was revealed yesterday afternoon as a result of a superficial observation made possible by the lowering of the water level in the coffer dam a total depth of seven feet.

On account of this unforeseen revelation of the terrific character of the explosion which sent the battleship to the bottom of the harbor, all plans heretofore proposed for dealing with the ultimate removal of the hull have become merely conjectural until a considerably greater amount of water has been pumped out.

Worse Conditions Seen.

As the water receded yesterday, every successive foot revealed worse and worse conditions in that portion of the hull forward of amidships which was subjected to the main force of the explosion.

The bow section is still nearly twenty feet below the surface, and here it is believed the destruction will be found to have been even more complete. The work of pumping was somewhat delayed yesterday because of the heavy rains and a slight interruption of the electric current.

It is the intention today to put into service the most powerful pumps and lower the water more rapidly, but still use the utmost caution, observing the effects of the increased pressure on the coffer dam, which up to the present has shown no indication of weakness.

To Search for Bodies.

Colonel Black, of the engineer corps, said last evening that he had reasonable expectation of lowering the water a total depth of eighteen or twenty feet within three or four days, which would render possible a fairly complete exploration of all portions of the ship, except the bow, where men were likely to have been on the night of the disaster.

It is probable that the searchers may be able to enter the officers' quarters in the after-structure today, where they may find the body of Ensign Merritt, the only officer missing.

AMBASSADOR TO VISIT THE KAISER

DR. DAVID JAYNE HILL

The American ambassador to Germany, Dr. David Jayne Hill, has received an invitation from the kaiser to visit Kiel in regatta week.

Dr. Hill will proceed to Kiel on June 21 in order to present Rear Admiral Badger and other officers of the second division of the United States Atlantic fleet to the kaiser upon their arrival there. He will remain for luncheon aboard the flagship and will be present at the kaiser's dinner to the Americans. The ambassador will then take leave of the kaiser, who will proceed on his northern cruise.

A Sure Sign.
That levity is a subject that is sometimes worth while avoiding has been learned to the sorrow of a would be undertaker.

At a recent examination of the state undertaking board among the questions asked of the many applicants was the following one:

"Crape on the floor," answered one. —Chicago Journal.

A Boomerang.
"So Miss Gummage got no damages in her breach of promise suit?"

"No. Her lawyer proved the man to be such a low-down, contemptible specimen of humanity that the jury decided he hadn't any value and congratulated her on losing him." —Baltimore American.

"Ah, proud beauty," exclaimed little Snifkins, "you spurn my love now, but let me tell you, I will not always be a clerk." —

"That's so," interrupted the heartless girl. "You may lose your job." —Catholic Standard and Times.

The Heart of Dan Tank

By P. C. Macfarlane

COPYRIGHT, 1910, BY THE FRANKSON PUBLISHING CO.

As he drove, the idea occurred to him that the hat, and especially the feather, and the way it was mounted was like one that Kathryn Moore often appeared in. He noticed it without thinking what it might mean. It merely reminded him that he had been thinking of her.

And then, suddenly, like the firing of a powder train, there flashed up in his mind all that long list of strange and inexplicable actions of Miss Moore, when the name of Tank and the subject of the graft prosecution was mentioned. He understood at last. He must have been blind before. And oh, the bitter bitterness of disillusionment! She loved Tank. She had half loved Dunne and halted between the two of them. Some way she had met the coarse man! Somehow she had been attracted, perhaps by the magnetic animalism of the creature, and all these months she must have been seeing him secretly!

The blood of the reformer boiled in his veins. He felt as if he must explode. And all the while he had not seen the face of the woman driving with Tank. He did not, of a surety, know who she was.

But he soon would know. He threw on the top speed and went by them—by them and did not dare to look.

He was by them and far ahead and they slowed up to avoid his dust. He sped down the road for a mile, then swiftly turned and drove slowly, doggedly back, his eyes upon the woman in the car with Tank and his face turning neither to the right nor to the left.

They met and passed. Involuntarily, he dropped his face upon the steering wheel. For a moment he was minded to turn the machine into the river and go to the bottom with it.

It was she. He saw her plainly. And she recognized him—recognized him, while a guilty pallor stole across her face.

But that was all. Presently the little dizziness which Dunne felt passed away and he opened the throttle wide.

Late in the night a dust-begrimed, tattered figure, unrecognizably wild in appearance, garaged the Dunne car, and walking stiffly in the deepest shadows, entered by means of a pass key into the bachelor apartments of the newspaper proprietor and one-time reformer.

One-time reformer! Was it only today that for Dunne the campaign had ended? It seemed to him a lifetime ago, that he had cared about that. He was tired, utterly tired. He was forgetful, utterly forgetful. He could not remember who he was, nor why he was tired, nor what the leaden ache in his breast was about. He flung himself as he was, upon the white counterpane. With an impatient push of his shoes upon the foot of the bed, he lifted himself into a position of comfort amid the pillows, and sank to dreamless slumber.

When he awakened, sore and stiff, his eyes heavy with sleep and travel dust, the sunlight of noonday was pouring into the apartment. He arose upon an elbow and stared at himself, and at the room. Like a sharp pain, recollections stabbed his mind with the thoughts of yesterday. He gritted his teeth and closed his eyes in the silent anguish of torturing memory. Then, with superhuman resolution, he forced himself to rise and sit upon the edge of his bed.

Before him as the one great thing, the big task of his life, all in fact, that remained to him, was this work, his old first, fond, all-reciprocating love, journalism.

And his first duty at the moment was to extend his credit so that one hundred thousand, and perhaps, two hundred thousand dollars might be available in the next sixty or one hundred days. While he was pondering this, a messenger appeared with a note. It was from the President of the Builders' Bank.

"I have persuaded our loan committee to consider the application you have made," it said. "Please meet the committee here at two o'clock with your proposition as to securities."

Here was hope—and diversion of mind. It wanted ten minutes to the appointed hour. Dunne was able almost to forget his wound for the few moments in which he strode down the block, across the street and waited in the directors' room of the Builders' Bank for the loan committee to appear.

In a short time, the president, Mr. Warnock, came out.

"The loan committee," he said, "has finally decided that as a banking proposition we cannot take it, but one of our heaviest stockholders is inclined to consider your loan as a private matter. He will see you in there," and he nodded to a room with a glass door on the right on which

BESSETTE-ROSE-STRASBURG

was inscribed the familiar legend "Private."

Dunne stepped quickly toward the door, but Warnock halted him with a gesture.

"You will possibly be surprised, Mr. Dunne, when you learn who the gentleman is waiting inside; but I assure you in advance, that his intentions are not in the least unfavorable to your cause."

The effect of this apparently unnecessary speech was to make Dunne wonder who he was to find within the room marked "Private," and to be suspicious of his intentions, whatever they were.

He knocked.

"Come," said a gruff, familiar voice.

Dunne quickly entered, closing the door behind him with one motion. There, at a small table, with the inevitable stub of a cigar in his mouth, his great, sleepy eyes regarding Dunne curiously, was Daniel Tank!

Jealousy and murderous rage might under the circumstances be supposed to have taken possession of Dunne at the sudden sight of the man who had beaten him at his reform campaign, and then stolen the heart of the woman he loved, almost from out of his arms. But Dunne was too great a man for this.

In that wild ride of the night before he had fought with himself, until everything, even his love, was thrust for the time, under his feet. He realized that the only way to avoid placing himself in a humiliating position was by keeping clearly in view the object of his call.

"I came here," he said, huskily, "to arrange for a loan of one hundred thousand dollars on my newspaper property with the option of taking another hundred thousand under the same mortgage if I should later desire it."

"That's all right," responded Tank, his cigar tilted up, while his eyes were tilted down to where he made indentations on a blotter with a paper cutter. "That's all right. I'll take your loan. Second mortgage, ain't it? And say, if you want to jump in? Them two hundred thousand to pay off the first mortgage, securing them, and make it one first mortgage to me of three hundred thousand or four, on that property, I'd like it better that way."

He said it with such an air of assured and casual finality that Dunne almost gasped and feared a trick.

"Do I understand that the acceptance of this loan from you ties my hands in any way as to the policy of this paper in its attitude toward your administration, or anything of that sort?"

"Nothin' to that idea," said Tank, frankly. "The paper's your'n. If you don't pay your mortgage when it comes due and I don't feel like renewin' it, I'll close you out, that's all."

"Well, you'll not close me out," said Dunne, the fighter, "but," he added, "while I want money badly and am anxious to float this loan at once for business reasons, you are the last person in the world from whom

I would expect any consideration, and I feel that I must know what your object is."

"Since you are so blame particular, I'll tell you," replied the Boss. "As you may remember, me and them three gray wolves, Donnelly, Macy and Manning, who have howled together on the trail goin' on fifteen years, had a fallin'-out a few months ago. They thought I was done for, and they tried to give me the toboggan. Well, I beat 'em out, and now we have a workin' agreement."

Dunne ground his teeth.

"I thought as much," he said.

"We have a workin' agreement, but I don't trust them any more. Now, with you out of the way, or in bad condition to fight, they are liable to be too strong for me. I don't want to risk it. You go ahead with your paper. Tend to your own business more and other people's less, and your paper'll soon be up and comin'—you can keep up your newspaper fight all you want to. As long as the people are what they are, you have done your worst to me and I'm still in the saddle. But you can hurt them higher-ups, as you call them, a lot. They want to get you, and when they do, they'll turn around and try to get me, and maybe they might do it. At least, they could make pickin's thin, and with thin pickin's my army don't fight well. They could cut my cracker line. Now it's a kind of a matter of self-defense with me, you see, for you to go on and fill your chosen mission in the world. That's why I'm lendin' you the money."

"I see," said Dunne, startled and yet relieved; "but," he added, out of the honest candor of his soul, "I think you are a bad citizen, a traitor to the city in which you live, and as long as you continue in your present course, I shall feel it my duty to oppose you and to prosecute you, if any other opportunity affords."

"That's all right," said the boss. "Go ahead. You ain't borrowin' this money from Tank, the citizen. You get it from Tank, the knacker."

"I'll help you get back on your feet, too," added Tank. "I'll bust that advertisin' boycott all to blazes. I'll send some of them big advertisers scurryin' back into your columns in a hurry," he added, good-naturedly.

"You make me strong to fight you, because at the same time, I can hurt your enemies far worse than I can hurt you," said Dunne.

"That's about the sense of it," said Tank. "Looks like a pretty good deal for you and me, all right."

"Yes," said Dunne, "and under the circumstances that I am in, I am compelled to accept it or see my paper go to the wall."

"There's nothin' to do but take it, I guess," said Tank.

"I accept the proposition," said Dunne flatly, after another moment's thought.

"All right," said Tank. "we can have the papers fixed up to-morrow."

For a moment there came to the newspaper proprietor such a sense of relief, that for the first time, he really understood how great had been his care for the future of his paper; how near, under the unscrupulous manipulation of powerful enemies, he had come to having his property ruined, and perhaps, after a deadly struggle, swept away from him. Like a man who had escaped from a burning building, he expelled the air from his lungs, and filled them again.

But the delicious sense of freedom did not remain long. As one burden rolled off, another swept down upon his soul like a mountain. It was the sense of the loss which had come to him through giving up his great love for Kathryn Moore. Now that his worry about the future of his paper was temporarily allayed, he understood that the very greatness of his anxiety for that which had been his whole life for fifteen years had prevented him from appreciating the poignancy of the other and greater sorrow, which possessed his soul. It came to him now with crushing force. His face became again white and drawn. And there sat the man who had robbed him of her! And this man, gross, contented, imperturbable, had for reasons of the basest selfishness, just loaned him the money to save his paper! He felt himself choking with humiliation. The very veins of his face were bursting. It was impossible! Unendurable! He would rather lose his paper, rather sink into the oblivion of failure with the ruin of it crashing down upon his head.

"No!" he suddenly shouted hoarsely.

"No!" I can't take your money. I won't." He stood over Tank threateningly, his face wild with passion.

"Sit down," Tank said. "Sit down, I've got something to tell you, and when I get through, if you've got anything personal against me, why, you can have my goat and welcome. Ain't nothin' fairer'n that, is there? There's another reason I had for helpin' you."

"What's that," asked Dunne, curiously.

"The little girl I had ridin' with me, yesterday."

Dunne leaped to his feet and his hands were once more gripping menacingly at the throat of Tank.

"By Heaven," he husked, fiercely, "if you dare to gloat over me about her—to—to intimate that this is done for her sake, to save her conscience, to extend a pitiable favor to a discarded lover, I'll kill you with my hands. I'll strip your windpipe bare, and tear it out of you."

"What's the matter, you fool?" blazed Tank, suddenly, stretching out a great arm, that thrust Dunne back as if he had been a clothes frame.

"You love her, don't you?"

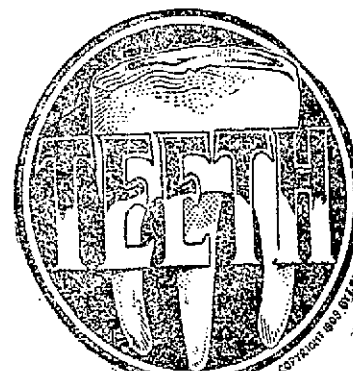

"Love her!" muttered Dunne, hoarsely. "I did love her with all my soul, until I found she was false to me."

REMARKABLE PICTURES OF RECENT SHIPWRECK IN THE ORIENT.

WRECK OF THE ASIA ON FINGER ROCK, 200 MILES SOUTH OF SHANGHAI.

PASSENGERS
ASIA ASHORE
AT SCENE OF WRECK

RESCUING PASSENGERS FROM THE WRECK OF THE S.S. ASIA

The accompanying remarkable photographs of the scenes attending the wreck of the Asia, of the Pacific Mail Steamship company, are the first to arrive here.

The story told by the survivors reads like a page of fiction. None of the details which go to the making of a thrilling tale of adventure—from the piling up of the huge steamship against a wall of solid rock in the foggy dawn, the mad rush to escape, the wireless calls for help and the transfer of the passengers in small boats to safety, to the rarer episodes of an attack by Chinese pirates bent on loot and, finally, the burning of the vessel by the sea robbers—no incident was lacking.

The last voyage of the Asia began at Hong Kong on April 21, ending on Finger Rock, some 200 miles south of Shanghai, at 5:30 o'clock on the morning of April 23.

A few moments before Captain

Gaukroger had seen the thick, deadly fog of the China sea swoop down and the fifteen-knot speed of the vessel was reduced to half. The echoes of the telegraph had scarce died away in the engine room when the fog lifted for a second to disclose a sheer precipice of rock a length or two away.

Quick action on the part of the captain prevented the steamship from dashing into the cliff head on. He succeeded in turning his vessel so that she sprang upon a low-lying pile of rock and remained fixed there long enough to enable the passengers to be taken off.

The Trouble.

Two old settlers sat smoking in a cabin far away in the backwoods. No woman's hand desecrated that domain, and grime reigned supreme and triumphant. The conversation drifted from politics to cooking.

"Yas," said the elder of the two, with a drawl. "I did get one of them there cookbooks wunst, but I could never do nothing with it."

"What was the hitch?" inquired the other.

"Well, every one of those recipes be-

BILL JONES AND HIS AERO-PLANE.

BILL JONES he took his aeroplane And scooted through the air. He flew from Mexico to Maine, He soared most everywhere, But when he started to come down, As he at evening planned, There was no place in all the town Where they would let him land.

He flew along until he saw A park not far ahead, The which he went a-steering for, Though filled with solemn dread, For as he neared his gates below Poor Billy Jones, alas, Saw painted on a sign of woe, "Keep Off the Grass!"

Next thing he saw was just a church— A Baptist church, I think. He sped toward it with a lurch That made poor Billy blink. But when he got up close to it— Oh, omen dark and dire!— It bore a painted sign to wit, "Keep Off the Spire!"

Again he mounted to the blue And gazed this way and that Until there rose before his view An eighteen story flat. "Ah, that's the spot for me," said Bill, "To land without reproof!" But there he read the message chill, "Keep Off the Roof!"

And so it is that Billy Jones Still speeds along the sky. He has to keep his weary bones Forever on the fly, And no one lives to say him nay Up in the ether there With shouting notices that say, "Keep Off the Air!" —Harper's Weekly.

A FARMER'S ACT

A farmer near Fort Wayne drove five miles the other day to pay a debt, losing half a day's time doing so.

Had he been a depositor of this bank, he would have mailed his check at an expense of two cents and spent the half day upon his farm.

It's an extravagance, a waste, not to use the facilities of a bank. It's a double extravagance and waste not to use

PRaises Compers; Rages At Editor

Roosevelt Lashes General Otis for Attitude in Dynamite Case.

ARTICLE IN OUTLOOK

New York, June 16.—In a leading editorial in the current issue of the Outlook, Theodore Roosevelt makes direct answer to editorials of Gen. Otis in the Los Angeles Times and of Samuel Compers in the American Federationist. The article is headed "Mr. Compers, Gen. Otis and the Dynamite Charges." The editorial says in part: "Certain of the capitalist newspapers of the stamp of that owned by Gen. Otis have been responsible for far more brutal utterances than can be attributed to any recognized labor leader." Col. Roosevelt then quotes the following as Gen. Otis's reply to him: "If the Times building was dynamited," says Mr. Facing Both Ways, "then those who did the work should be punished. The Times feels that the 'if' is an upholding of the cause of disorder, and a distinct aid to the villain who incited and procured the murder of twenty innocent men and the destruction of $500,000 worth of property."

"Gen. Otis, in this article, has taken the very position against which all good citizens should protest when taken by the labor men," continues Col. Roosevelt. "That is, the purpose of my article was to protest against the assuming before trial what it was hoped to prove or disprove at the trial, and in this way Gen. Otis is guilty of conduct, which could not be too severely denounced if the offender were a labor leader, and which therefore can not be too severely denounced when the offender is a violent opponent of organized labor and a consistent enemy of every movement for social and economic betterment—just as he has shown himself the consistent enemy of the men in California who have dared resolutely to stand against corruption and in favor of honesty."

Compers Commands Respect.

"The article by Mr. Compers in the American Federationist offers the most striking contrast in tone and temper to the article of Gen. Otis. Mr. Compers' editorial is a fair and honorable statement of a position with which I only in part disagree, couched in language which warrants respectful and careful attention. On the point that Gen. Otis raises, that his building was dynamited, Mr. Compers takes the opposite side. In my article I confined myself to stating what was the right path to follow, if it were proven that the building had been dynamited and union men implicated in the crime."

"The attitude of Gen. Otis in his paper affords a curious instance of the anarchy of soul which comes to the man who, in consciousness, fashion, and rights, is no less surely than it comes to the man who, in the name of human rights, wars upon all men of property, good and bad."

A Carnival of Bargains Begins Here To-morrow

In Which Prices Pipe Merry Tunes Written in the Lowest Register

Our buyer made a big purchase at the big clearance sale of the Marshall Field store at Chicago. From this big sale were selected piles upon piles of brand new stuff, such as Misses' Dresses, Dry Goods, Shirt Waists, Suits, Laces, Embroideries, Ribbons, Hosiery, etc., for less than manufacturing cost. Our rule of small profits for quick disposal, places these new goods before women at as low prices as were ever quoted in the city at any time for materials of similar qualities.

This is clean-up time of the year for manufacturers and wholesalers, and, like the scientific merchants they are, they part with their goods at a loss. The public is gradually coming to understand that merchants of 20th century training frequently forget all about profit.

We bought these goods, and bought largely, because we know that women are ready at the present moment to buy this merchandise provided the values are right, and prices right.

Here is a schedule of our purchases, the goods having just been unboxed. Read them over and don't forget that we also give you the "S. & H." Trading Stamps.

MERCHANTS MAKE PROTEST.

Object to Establishment of Saloon on Public Square.

Bloomington, Ind., June 16.—Bloomington has never had a saloon on the public square, which is known as the "levee" district being the place where all liquor has been sold heretofore. Seven men applied for liquor licenses at the June term of the commissioners and the rooms where each one of the applicants proposes to open are on the "levee." Joseph Kadison, a poolroom proprietor, has applied for license to open a saloon on the west side of the square, and a remonstrance already has been started by adjoining property owners, who say that their property will be depreciated in value if license is granted to Kadison. They have employed attorneys and will fight the case.

ADOPT DECIMAL REPORT SYSTEM

The contention of the United States for the universal adoption of the decimal system in crop reporting was acceded to by the International Institute of Agriculture that recently held its biennial general assembly in Rome, according to David J. Foster, vice president of the institute and chairman of the American delegation, who arrived in New York a few days ago. Mr. Foster, who was formerly senator from Vermont, was accompanied by General Edgar R. Champlin, of Cambridge, Mass., another delegate.

DEEP MYSTERY IN DEATH OF WOMAN

Will We Never Catch On?

Our slowness to learn—is it not instinctual? It might be put stronger and called reprehensible.

Though all cosmic laws we proclaim as immutable, We hesitate not to admit they're inscrutable.
